year, all within fifteen miles of this city. The Chicago and St. Louis express, which ulled out of the union depot at 8:30 o'clock his evening, was stopped by eight masked men at Evanston, a suburban stopping place just beyond Washington park. Evanston is about eight miles nearer to Kansas City than Blue Cut, made celebratwas the scene of the two previous robberes on the Chicago and Alton.

The train was stopped at Evanston sidig by the explosion of torpedoes which had been placed on the track. When the onductor and brakemen went out to asertain the cause of the trouble they were sovered with revolvers in the hands of four of the eight road agents. The other four quickly covered the engineer and fireman. The brakemen were compelled to uncouple. While this was being done one of the robbers busica himself by going brough the pockets of Conductor Graves, who was robbed of $22 in coin.

In the meantime the bandits at the ead of the train had ordered Engineer Vollette and his fireman to climb down out of their cab. Engineer Vollette hesitated until a pistol ball was sent whizzing by his ears. He and the fireman. after this persuasion, climbed down and two of the robbers immediately took their places. The others of the bandit crowd umped aboard the baggage and express cars. This part of the train they ran up the track toward Independence about a quarter of a mile. There they compelled the frightened express messenger to open the door of the car. The door once open ed, they dragged the messenger by the legs, throwing him to the ground, and then took his gun away from him. The messenger was then compelled to walk back toward the other portion of the

After securing complete possession of the engine and baggage and express cars, the bandits placed twenty-four sticks of dynamite upon the big through safe and then lifted the smaller way safe upon the top of it. They applied the fuse and the match, but for some reason the explosive did not go off.

The robbers were afraid to return to the express car, for, after waiting a few minutes for the expected explosion, they nurriedly left the place, running into the underbrush which skirts the railway in that section. The trainmen who had been left behind with the passenger coaches waited a reasonable length of time for the robbers to complete their work and then ran ahead to the engine and the two cars. After some delay they succeeded in lifting down the small safe and throwing the explosive. The engine was then run back to the rest of the train and coupled on, and after two hours' delay the express resumed the journey toward

A PRESBYTERIAN D.D. CHANGES. Joined Baptists Because He Believes in Immersion.

Montgomery, Ala., October 6.-Rev. Stephen Tucker, D.D., recently of Decatur, Ala., a minister who for years has stood high in the Presbyterian church, resigned his denominational faith and was ordained as a Baptist minister here this morning. Half a dozen Baptist ministers officiated in the ordination ceremonies.

Mr. Tucker was influenced to change his church by the arguments of Rev. William H. Whitsitt in the recent controversy among Baptists about baptism. Mr. Tucker being convinced that immersion is essential

He is a deep scholar, a profound thinker flights of elocution. He is also a widely

Unless Russia and Japan Are Shut Out of the Conference.

But on Canada Representing That There Was Danger of Being Outvoted Reconsideration Was Had

London, October 6.-The officials of the British foreign office have communicated to the United States ambassador, Colorel John Hay, the final decision that the government of Great Britain must refuse to take part in any sealing conference with representatives of Russia and Japan,

The British government, however, asserts its willingness to confer with the United States alone, but it insists that Russia and Japan are not interested in the Bering sea seals to a degree entitling them to representation at the conference.

The British government does not suggest any date for a conference with the United States, and it is thought probable in London that Great Britain's withdrawal will result in two meetings, one between the United States, Russia and Japan and the other between the United States and Great Britain and Canada.

It cannot be too strongly relterated that the withdrawal of Great Britain from the Washington conference is due to Canada's insistence and that until the Canadian officials informed the foreign office here of Canada's objection to meeting Russia and Japan, out of fear of being outvoted, Great Britain fully intended to enter the con-

Washington, October 6.-Inquiry in the state department confirms the announcement from the British foreign office in London that the British government has refused to take part in any conference in which Russian and Japanese delegates par-ticipate. Beyond this confirmation the officials of the department decline to discuss the question, as correspondence is still progress on the subject.

Mr. John W. Foster, ex-secretary of state, who is in charge of the interests of the United States in the Bering sea seal fisheries matter, was asked about the statement that there would be two conferences, one between the United States and Great Britain and the other between the Inited States, Russia and Japan, declined to discuss this point at the present time.

Boston, Mass., October 6 .- The last ba'l game of the season here and the third in the Temple cup series was as dull and uninteresting a contest as has been seen here for many a day. The Baltimores won with ridiculous ease, and closed their engagement by practically exhausting the pitchtalent of the Boston nine.

DIXON STILL HOLDS THE BELT. Fight Lost with Smith Does Not Carry the Championship.

San Francisco, October 6.—The decision "Smith wins" rendered by George Green in the Smith-Dixou fight Monday night does not deprive Dixon of the feather-weight championship of the world. The marquis of Queensberry rules provide that all championship battles shall be to a finish. Had Smith knocked Dixon out in any one of the twenty rounds, or had Dixon's seconds thrown up the sponge or had Dixon falled to respond to the call of time in any one of the rounds Smith would today be the featherweight champion of the world. But as it was Dixon at the end of the twentieth round was strong and belligerent, consequently he did not surrender the championship by Green's decision. The decision was on points and nothing else. In order that Smith may acquire the featherweight championship of the world he must fight and lick Dixon to a finish, which he declares he is ready to do at any Green's decision is almost universally regarded as a fair one. .

WITNESSES DEALT WITH SEVERELY

Prosecution in Luetgert Case Takes the Defendant's Witnesses To Task.

SCHOLEY BADLY WORSTED He Is the Man Who Swore He Saw Mrs.

Luetgert at Kenosha. RESIDENTS OF TOWN REFUTE HIS STORY

Evidence Showing That Prisoner Did Not Prepare To Make Soap on Night of May 1st.

Chicago, October 6.-The testimony in the Luetgert trial today was more interest ing to the general public than it has been at any time for the last two weeks. The dry technical evidence of the experts gave way to impeachment evidence offered by the state against the witnesses for the defense who had stated on the stand that Mrs. Lutegert had been seen in the vicinity of Kenosha, Wis., within a few days after the murder is said to have been committed. Several of those who claimed to have seen the woman around Kenosha fared badly at the hands of their neighbors, and wit ness Scholey, the principal witness for the defense on the Kenosha story, had his character torn to shreds.

Evidence was introduced to show that Luetgert had not put any grease or chipned hone into his vats for making soap on the night of May 1st, as his business part-ner, William Charles, had testified, because it had all been carted away on the morning before. It was also shown that Luetgert had no occasion to make any oap, for when the factory was seized by a deputy sheriff several days after the mur-der is said to have been committed a great many barrels of soap belonging to hin were found in the basement of the factory.
One of the strongest features in the rebuttal evidence offered in the trial today was the evidence of Adam Brinker, a teamster for a soap factory. It was in reference to the tallow, grease and chipped bone which George Eland said he delivered at the factory on May 1st, and which William Charles testified was procured as some of the ingredients of soft soap which was to made for the purpose of thoroughly clearing up the big sausage factory preliminary to its prospective sale to an English syndicate. Brinker said he hauled all the tallow-sixty-six pounds-and 150 pounds of bone away from the factory May 1st. He explained that it was his duty to do this each week, usually the last day of the week. He conveyed the istaterial to a soap-making firm by which he was employed. "Did you see bones, tallow or mixed "Did you see bones, tallow or mixed grease in the barrels other than the grease you handled on May Ist?" asked Assis-tant State's Attorney McEween.

"No, sir, the barrels were all empty I saw in the factory on that day."
"Did you ever put any bones or tallow in the technique." as contradicting the story of the defense to the effect that Luetgert had used barrels of grease and tallow in the factory on the of grease and tallow in the factory on the night of May 1st in making soft soap. According to the story of Brinker there was absolutely no tallow, bones or grease in the barrels which are alleged to have been rolled into the basement and afterwards dumped into the middle vat.

The Times, of this city, has developed the story, which proves that a man can hold hand of death touches life's vitals and then that bosom can hold the conscience venom

Will Harper is now lingering in the Carroll county jail awaiting trial for the murder of his wife

The people are familiar with the circumstances of the killing. Will Harper claims that the killing was purely accidental. .A mystery has just been brought to light which bears heavily on Harper's case.

About five years ago a negro by the name of Sam Tony was killed and the circumstances pointed to Will Harper as the murderer. He was arrested and tried, but came clear with the consensus of public opinion against him.

This case had a strong tendency to prejudice the minds of the people against him in his present trouble. Will Harper has led a wild and reckless life, and, like all such men, gets credit for more meanness than is due him. The Real Criminal Confesses. Last Friday a negro by the name of Bud

Wyatt died at his home near Graham, Ala. A few days before the murder of Tony Wyatt and Will Harper had a difficulty. On his death bed a few days ago Wyatt confessed to the killing of Sam Tony and stated that Will Harper was perfectly innocent of the crime that had once been laid at his feet. This is a rather sensational development and will have considerable bearing on the case now pending against Harper, not that the cases are in the least related, but it will tend to clear the prejudice from the minds of the people.

It is the opinion among some of the most prominent attorneys and court officials that a jury can be secured in Clayton, but hundreds of people believe that it will be impossible to find twelve unprejudiced men in the entire county.

Nearly two hundred men were examined before the last jury was recured and it was necessary to bring down the grand jury and exhaust one panel from that body before the twelve men could be found.

The Georgia militia may yet have a company of pretty young women soldiers and if it does they will be one of the best drilled organizations in the state. Foster's Light infantry, the company of

It will be as thoroughly a business organization as any male company in the state.

The company was organized for the pur pose of drilling in the entertainment to be given tonight for the benefit of the Grady hospital. A number of pretty young women were selected to be the soldiers and for the past few months they have been drilled and marched by Sergeant W. J. Foster, of the Capital City Guards.

When the question of naming the company was brought up one of the young la-dies in a spirit of fun suggested that it be called Foster's Light Infantry. The name was such a good one that the young lades decided among themselves that it should be made the permanent name of the cominy, in honor of the young drillmaste who has worked so hard with them. Ser geant Foster's protestations were useless and the name of the company is now Fos-ter's Light Infantry.

Tonight the company will make its first appearance before the Atlanta publ! takes part in the entertainment for the adies will be drilled and marched by Ser geant Foster and their appearance will be one of the features of the programme. The young ladies who compose this company are very greatly pleased with the idea of being solders and Sergeant Foster will in the course of the next few weeks apply for a charter for a military organization to be composed of young ladies and to be known as Foster's Light Infantry. When the entertainment is over the drills will be continued. The strength of the company will be increased and two buglers will be added. There are at present about ty-six young ladies in the company they will be increased to sixty. company and

PAMPHLET UPHOLDS CLEVELAND'S COURSE

Jose Rodriguez, Counsel for the Persecuted Man, Reviews the Case. What Caused the Pardon.

Washington, October 6 .- The celebrated case of Julio Sanguilly is presented in a emi-official form in a pamphlet issued today by Sanguilly's counsel here, Jose Rodriguez. It tells the story in detail and gives a number of letters passing between Secretary Olney, Senator Sherman, Consul General Lee and the United States minister at Madrid, Mr. Hannis Taylor, not appearing in the state department publi cations and heretofore unpublished. As a whole the document upholds the course of President Cleveland and Secretary Ol ney and points out that the agitation in

But that moment was one of extreme perplexity, which the friends of Sanguilly will not easily forget. Through an expuerant effusion of patriotic zeal and most commendable humanitarian technics on the part of certain members of the United States senate—through a noble, although misguided sentiment of generous compassion, industriously worked up in their minds, and in the minds of the kindhearted people of this country by whiful misrepresentation of the facts of the ease and by stories propagated by false friends and intruders about wrongs and sufferings and indignities perpetrated upon the prisoner, which in fact were never perpetrated, or attempted to be perpetrated; through the desire of certain Cuban agistators, without authority to speak for the prisoner, of posing as his friends, urging extreme measures of precipitating, if possible, a conflict between the United States and Spain, aiming at no other end and seeking no other thing than the advance of the cause in the advocacy of which they were engaged; through the temptation into which many a distinguished public man of this country seemed to have been led of converting a case which involved the liberty and perhaps the life of a citizen of the United States of America into an instrument of opposition to the ideas and principles represented by President Cleveland and his secretary of state, Mr. Olney; through the vociferation of a certain part of the press; and through many other causes and circumstances, a condition of things which might have proved fatal was created at once. A measure of doubtful justice. Buys:
"But that moment was one of extreme which the friends of Sanguilies of America in a war with that nation than to save Sanguilly, and grounded upon an imperfect knowledge of the facts of an imperfect knowledge of the facts of the case, was attempted to be rushed through the United States senate exactly at the same time in which the determina-tion already reached by Spain to comply with the wishes of the United States of America and set Julio Sanguilly at lib-erty was being carried into execution. "Thanks to Divine Providence, through the righteous attitude of the state departthe righteous attitude of the state department; through the firm stand of some honorable senators who were then called or gans of the governor general of Cuba, or the friends of the measure acknowledged to have used 'a little by-word of badinage;' through the co-operation of the Spanish or display of force."

For this reason it was determined that diplomatic action toward a pardon would best serve Sanguilly's interests. Sanguilly approved this and in a letter to Trope, which I had, has revived in me the soul through your action. Do all that you can, my dear friend, to secure my freedom through a pardon or if not possible in that way try at least to obtain my release on bail. But I pray you to prevent, if possible, my being sent to Madrid." The steps leading up to the pardon are Painful diseases are bad enough, but when a man is slowly wasting away with nervous weakness, the mental forebodings are ten times worse than the most severe pain. There is no let-up to the mental suffering day or night. Sieep is almost impossible and under such a strain men are scarcely responsible for what they do. For years the writer rolled and tossed on the troubled sea of sexual weakness until it was a question whether fie had not befter take a dose of poison and thus end all his troubles. But providential inspiration came to his aid in the shape of a combination of medicines that not only completely restored the general health, but enlarged his weak, emaciated parts to natural size and vigor, and he now declares that any man who will take the trouble to send his name and address may have the method of this wonderful treatment free. Now when I say free I mean absolutely without cost, because I want every weakened man to get the benefit of my experience.

I am not a philanthropist, nor do I pose as an enthusicist, but there are thousands of men suffering the mental tortures of weakened manhood who would be cured at once could they but get such a remedy as the one that cured me. Do not try to study out how I can afford to pay the few postage stamps necessary to mail the information, but send for it, and learn that there are a few things on earth that although they cost nothing to get they are worth a fortune to some men and mean allfetime of happiness to most of us. are such a vast aid now, would be almost trade to a cash basis and limit the volume of business almost to stagnation "In extending credit to merchants, I am constantly considering questions concerning a customer's fire insurance. His statement of his assets would not be complete if it did not set forth the amount of insurance carried, the character of the companies as well as the kind of building occupied and its environment. It is to me a note of warning if I find a customer either over or under insured. If he is over insured, I am thinking of the moral hazard to me in extending credit to him. If he is undermusured, I am thinking of the business hazard in extending credit to him. If he is undermusured, I am thinking of the business hazard in extending credit to him. I always take the liberty of cautioning customers who even temporarily carry over-insurance. Some business men in good faith carry a certain amount of insurance through the year. When the stock is depleted by sales between purchasing periods, I maintain that if only for a month the amount of insurance should be reduced. I frequently find a customer or would-be customer without insurance arguing that he has a right to insure himself, some times because the building he occupies is isolated or specially well constructed, and some times for the reason that the buildings are poor and the rate is too high and he cannot afford to pay it. I have always advised against such a plan and not infrequently have been compelled to decline or restrict the amount of paredit because the customer persisted in carrying his own insurance. Only when a film, company or individual has a large number of risks in different cities or remote parts of a large city is he justified in carrying his own risk, and even then I would question my own ability to calculate the number of separate risks one ought to have to enable him to insure his own property, and I would, therefore, doubt his ability to figure it out. The only safe way is to insure, and a business that will not enable a man to inment of his assets would not be complete t did not set forth the amount of insurance

Mr. Higinbotham criticised over-insuring and suggested legislative regulation, and he favored national supervision, national inspection by special examiners on the principle that the government examined national banks. With governmental super vision an insurance policy would be as good as a bank note, while infringement of moral law would be a violation of federal statute with swift punishment that now follows fraudulent banking.

Many insurance men would prefer name that now insurance men would prefer name to the control of the tional regulation to state regulation. 'My manager asked him how much fie was going to charge, saying he didn't care anything about the inspection, but he just wanted to know what it would cose. The examiner replied that his fee would be $1,000. Then the manager said to him we only did about $10,000 a year in the state and we paid $8,000 of that back for losses. If he had to pay $1,000 for an examination, he would shut up his office and thdraw from the state. Well, how would $100 strike you? ask ed the examiner. 'We will pay that,' he was informed, and he went ahead with his work. When lunch time came the examiner was invited out by the manager. Two three other insurance men joined them and they went to a cafe. The examiner had said that he never took anything to drink. So when they sat down to the table our epresentative remarked that he hoped the examiner would not feel offended if the others took a bottle of beer, as was their custom at lunch.

Instead of being offended, the state official said that if the others were going to take a drink he believed he would like a By the time the dinner was over the examiner was outside the best part of two bottles of wine and he said that he was perfectly satisfied with the condition of the company's affairs and would give the proper certificate.

Dispensary Men in South Carolina Are Gloomy Over Decreased Business in Their Line.

Athens, Ga., October 6.-(Special.)-Georgia may have an "original package" war on her hands within the next few weeks. A citizen of Athens was asked a few days since by a Charleston, S. C., firm to act as an agent for such a business in this city, but refused to do so. This firm told him that they had investrated the law of Georgia and the Athens dispensary law, and that they were satisfied that such a business could be carried

The dispensary law of Athens antedates the South Carolina law and really was the inspiration for the enactment of that law.

The Athens dispensary law was drafted 1891 by Hon. Andrew J. Cobb, now associate justice of the supreme court; Judge George C. Thomas, now representative from Clarke, and Hon. H. C. Tuck, DISPENSARY MEN ARE SAD. Sale of Original Packages Hurts Their Business. Columbia, S. C., October 6,-(Special.)-

The dispensary outlook at this end is very gloomy and members of the board of control are wearing long faces tonight. At the September meeting of the state board of control it was confidently asserted that the original package agencies instead of hurting the dispensary, would help it. To establish the truth of this proposition, a comparative statement of the sales for August, 1896, and 1897 was read, which showed that the business done in the month of the last named year was several thousand dollars in excess of the same month the previous year. From the showing thus made the board felt confident of a large fall trade and for September business alone ordered 1,219 barrels of corn and rve whisky. At the meeting of the board yesterday another comparative statement of sales was read. It was for September, 1896 and 1897. It showed a falling off of $37,355.90 in the receipts. Of the 1,210 barrels of whisky ordered for the September trade. 736 remain on hand and in transit. This marked decline in the demand for dispensary goods has led Colonel Jones to say in his report:

"As your next meeting will be on the second day of the month, and in consideration of the large lot of liquor still on hand, I wish to amend my requisition for whisky by reducing the amount asker for of corn to 400 barrels and the amount of rye to fifty barrels."

Several shortages were considered, the most troublesome case being that of Dispenser Williamson, of Florence. He was found short. His clerk made affidavit that Williamson has been systematically doctoring his books. The assistant attorney general, sent to investigate the robbery, reported that if there was any in was made by the dispenser himself. Williamson alleged a conspiracy of his enemies to ruin him. He was retained. Editor Crews, who was formerly in of The Cotton Plant, and is now a paper of his own, was granted a beer privilege for the town of Laurens.

CAMPAICN WORK ENDS TONICHT

Battle of Ballots in City Election Tomorrow

CANDIDATES AND VOTERS READY

The Campaign Has Been a Quiet, but Interesting One.

TICKETS GALDRE, SCHEMES A PLENTY

The People Will Mark the Tickets and Vote for Individuals-How the Contest Has Waged in the Seven Wards-List of All the Tickets.

The municipal campaign ends tonight The primary for the nomination of can didates for council and aldermanic board will be held tomorrow and the outcome is being awaited with interest. The uncer tainty of the result in some of the wards the lively campaign that is being made by the candidates and the many issues in volved in the contest all serve to create wide interest in the election and it is now the chief topic of conversation on the streets, in the homes and in the shops of Atlanta.

With the coming of dusk tonight the can didates will cease their long labor among the voters, except that at the polls tomorrow. When the shops and stores close their loors for the night, when the citizens go to their homes and night falls, the battle will have been fought and won, but by whom? Tomorrow will tell. Only the counting of the ballots will determine. It is admitted by everybody that the workers at the polls will be of little importance in the election. They will change but few votes; therefore the battle will have beer fought when the voters make up their ticket at their firesides this evening. It will remain for them to go to the polls, cast the little ballots in the boxes and wait for the count.

Upon the whole it has been a quiet campaign. True, the candidates and their friends have worked nard every day for weeks and considerable interest is attached to the election, yet in comparison with the election of last year, when a mayor and councilmen and aldermen and city officials were elected, this year's campaign has been quiet one. It has been livelier in some of the wards than in others. In two of the wards there are three-cornered fightsthe third and seventh-and in those wards the contest has waged without lack of interest. In all the other wards there are at least two candidates for council, save one -the first ward-and the voters have lacked nothing to keep the contest prominent in

Hard Work of the Candidates.

Everything is in readiness for the election tomorrow. Today's work will wind up the hard labor of the campaign, because tomorrow the candidates will put in the day about the different polls. This week and last week they have walked the streets, visited the stores, shops and other places where a voter could be found, and every one of them agrees that campaigning is harder work than their usual vocation. But with their ambition to serve the city, their thirst for public honors, spurred on by their natural antipathy for defeat, they have worked ceaselessly among the voters, until each one of the candidates will go to his home tonight firmly convinced that his elction is assure. Tomorrow will bring forth a different state of affairs-certainty will take the place of doubt and it will be known who are the fortunate ones.

The polling places in the seven wards will present scenes of activity early tomorrow morning. Promptly at 7 o'clock the windows will be thrown open and the little white slips will begin to find their way into the boxes, to remain hidden from view, silently making up a verdict to be announced tomorrow night. The little slips of paper will tell the tale of the election and candidates will anxiously await the work of the managers and clerks after the polls close. The work of the candidates and their friends tomorrow will be principally devoted to bringing out a full vote. The registered voters will be sought after and urged to go to the polls and cast their ballots and a good percentage of the registered voters are expected to participate in the election. The candidates have urged the voters to not fail to go to the polls and exercise their right of franchise, and a special plea is being made to all citizens to not fail to cast a ballot. Nineteen After Nine Jobs.

There are seven councilmen and two aldermen to be elected tomorrow, or rather nominated. The regular election will be held in December. For the nine vacancies to occur by the retirement of one-half of the members of the present general council there are no fewer than nineteen candidates. Of the nine places to be filled seven are seats in the council and two are aldermanic board places. Each of the seven wards will select a new councilman and the north and south sides will each nominate a new alderman. The first and fifth wards are entitled to the aldermanic places his year, the first on the south side and the fifth on the north side. On the south side Alderman Joseph Hirsch will retire nd on the north side Alderman Mark Tolbert will step down and make way for a new alderman.

The contest for the two aldermanic vacancies is one of the lively features of the campaign. There is splendid rivalry among the four candidates for the places and much interest is centered in the out come of the election in this respect. For the councilmanic honors in the several wards there are from one to three candidates in each ward. The first ward alone has a single candidate. Mr. M. T. LaHatte is the only candidate in this ward, and he is the only man in the entire race who is assured of election, and he is certain to have a walkover. All efforts to bring another candidate in his ward failed, and

Mr. LaHatte will go into council without in any quarter.

Yesterday was a day of developments in the campaign. It brought out the plan of work of the several candidates and tickets in the field, narrowed the races to a fine point, encouraged the candidates and inspired them for harder work, now that they are on the home stretch. They watched each other closely during the day Every point of vantage "as contested for and the speeders exerted themselves to get in the lead. The voters were held up, the printers were kept busy dashing off cards and tickets, the workers were sent here and there and it was a busy day for the aspirants for office. Schei counter schemes were concocted, flustrated and concocted again. Stories of all kinds were set afloat and the closing incidents of a campaign were visible on every side. As for tickets, there are plenty of them. The voter will not like for an opportunity to vote for any kind of ticket he may de-sire when he reaches the polls tomorrow. There are tickets and combinations galore. This is one of the annoying features of the campaign, the number of tickets announce ed, the combinations made without visible purpose, the mysterious manner of bringing out this and that ticket which pretends to stand for this and that, yet stands for nothing, except a means to catch the voters

Ticket Makers' Work Useless The truth is the ticket makers will find that their love's labor is lost this year. Ticket booms are falling flat. The old catch vote cries are unheeded and citizens are paying little attention to the hourly appearance of this and the other ticket. What the voters are looking for this year is men, and the political observers, the me, who have watched the campaigns of the past, say that the tickets voted tomor row will be of no particular creed, but candidates will be selected according to the estimate of the voter. The vest pocket voter will be in the majority and scratching will be the order of the day, because the voters have determined to disregard the ticket makers and make up tickets to suit ther selves.

"Individual candidates will be picked out ere and there and voted for according to the desire of the voters," said an old politi-cian yesterday. "The people will not listen to the ticket makers and ward heelers. The workers at the polls will have little to do. The voters will vote their conviction, in ost instances, and the ballots will be taken out of the vest pockets and handed to the managers. In the past the old catch vote method of putting out tickets with popular names has succeeded, but this time the individuality of the candidates will the question considered by the average

Aldermanic Contests Lively.

The contest for the aldermanic vacancy on the north side between Dr. J. D. Tur-ner and Mr. Andy P. Thompson is a lively ne. Both reside in the fifth ward and aspire to fill the place to be vacated by A.der-man Tolbert. The friends of both candi-dates believe their champion will be elected and there is much speculation among the citizens as to the outcome of this race Both are well known citizens and stand high in the estimation of the voters. Dr. Turner was a member of the council two terms several years ago, and he is familiar with the duties and has given close attention to the needs of the city. Mr. Thompson is now a member of the representing his ward in the lower branch of the body.

On the south side the candidates for the anic place are Mr. James L. Mayson and Mr. Aaron Haas. Both are making an active canvass for the votes necessary to nominate. Both reside in the first ward and are well known in all the wards. The friends of Mr. Mayson confidently predict his nomination and the same is true of Mr. Haas's frieds. The contest will be a lively Contests in the Seven Wards. As stated, Mr. M. T. LaHatte will be elected councilman in the first ward. He is well known in his ward and throughout the city, and his friends predict that he will make a splendid record in council. In the second ward Mr. H. A. Boynton and Mr. Green Adair are pitted against each other for the council chair. They are running a lively race and the result can only be told tomorrow night, after the bal-lots are counted. Both believe they are in

In the third ward, always one of the storm centers of political campaigns, there friends are working hard for them and it is hard to tell who is in the lead.
Colonel W. S. Thomson and Dr. C. E. Murphey are running a hot race in the fourth ward. They are neck and neck and each is striving to outdistance his competitor The contest is a pretty one and the fourth ward seems to be one of the doubtful quarters in the election. In the fifth, Mr. John Welch, the wellknown engineer on the Western and Atlantic raiiroad, and Mr. D. N. McCullough, the nonular young merchant, are contesting for the councilmanic vacancy. Mr. Welch has been in the field some time, but Mr. McCullough is a new element. He announced his candidacy several days ago and his friends are pushing him in the race. Mr. Welch's friends are leaving nothing undone to further his candidacy.

In the sixth ward, Mr. Clyde L. Brooks, the attorney, and Mr. Thod Hammond are pitted against each other in the race for council. They are running a friendly race, both being lawyers.

There is a lively contest in the seventh ward. Three candidates are in the field and they have kept the voters guessing. Mr Malvern Hill, Mr. Ed Wilson and Captain J. F. Dozier are the aspirants in this ward. All are popular in their ward and are being

Six Tickets in the Field. There are now no less than six differ ent tickets before the people to be voted for tomorrow. Tickets grew up like mushrooms yesterday. The voters were kept guessing where all the tickets came from. The elements behind the different tickets put in the field have not been announced, the promoters of each being content to cast their combination before the public view and leave the voters to decide for himself what it represents and by what authority. Of course no reflection is meant to be cast upon any candidate whose name appears on any of the tickets. The queen method of putting up tickets claiming to be for one thing and another is the amusing feature of the work of the ticket ma-

He declares that all objectionable classes of voters are off the list and that none but the best class of business men and wage earners have regis

"The candidate who is elected by this vote will have reason to be proud of his victory," said Tax Collector Stewart, yesterday, in speaking of the list. "I have never seen a more solid representation of Atlanta's voting population before in my This list excels all others in view of this fact.

"I found many triplicates and duplicates the list." says Mr. Stewart. "Many mes were so similar that I had to send t to the residences of some of the voters to ascertain whether the two names rep-resented different men or that they stood for one man who had registered twice through mistake. The count has been con-ducted slowly and tedlously and under many difficulties."

A Card from Colonel W. S. Thomson.

(Communicated.) To the Voters of Atlanta-Although have lived here over twenty-six years, for the first time in my life I am a candidate for a public office and seek nomination (by the primary to be held on 8th instant) for the position of councilman from the Fourth ward. I learn from a source that I considspecially desire my defeat, but have so decreed, and put in full operation the ma-chinery they so well know how to use to accomplish their purpose. The manipulators of the factions have united to support my opponent and defeat me. I do not believe that the intelligent voters of this great city will allow themselves to be dictated to and controlled by these self-constituted bosses I appeal from their decree to the manhood of Atlanta. I have not made any pledge or promise, neither have I bought a vote, nor hired a worker, nor will I. I have kept myself free to obey the law, and follow the dictates of my conscience and best judgment; and, if elected, will, to the best of my ability discharge the duties of the office, and seek to deserve your confidence and respect. I will wear no man's collar and prefer overwhelming defeat with self-respect maintained, and your confidence deserved, to success attained at the expense of either. It is for you and not for the bosses to say who shall be members of your general council, and I respectfully ask your suffrages tomorrow. With the decision you make, I shall be content, whether it be for or against me. Respectfully, myself free to obey the law, and follow the or against me. Respectfully,

THIRD WARD SEES A REAL HOT TIME

Mass Meeting.

The Fifth Ward Candidate and Will

Charge Was Made That It Had Been Packed and a Motion Was Made to Adjourn at Once.

The third ward can always be depended upon to furnish lively incidents and exciting events in a political campaign. The ward is known as one of the hot political beds of the city, and it never fails to stir up something of interest in a campaign. The third came to the front last night with a mass meeting of voters which was lively to the point. It was interesting and there came near being a 'lot time n that section of the old town. To get down to the point, there was a scene in the meeting which bade fair to breed trouble of a serious nature. The meeting started off with a ruffle, It was held in McCaslin's hall, on East Hunter street, and the crowd comfortably filled the room. There was some delay in calling the meeting to order, and no sooner had it been called to order than trouble began. The first thing which had to decided by the meeting was whether t should meet or not. The point was decided in favor of the meeting, the meeting itself doing the deciding. When Captain Tip Harrison had ejected chairman and Mr. Joseph Thompson, Jr., secretary. Mr. H. P. Blount secured the floor and moved that the meeting adjourn. He said the meeting had peen packed and did not represent the ward. The question was taken on the motion and the crowd voted to ranain. The meeting was first called to order by Colonel G. K. Looper, the well-known attorney. The next question raised was whether the meeting should be limited to third ward people. It was decided that all citizens could participate. Then the speaking began. The candidates were nearly all present and they set forth their claims for votes. It was near the end of the peaking when the incident par excellence in interest, the feature of the whole show, uddenly stirred the crowd to a pitch of excitement

Welch and McMillan Make a Scene Mr. John Welch, candidate for council in the fifth ward, was speaking. Ar. Welch and his opponent, Mr. Nim McCul-lough, are making a friendly race and 'hey have been saying nice things about each other. Mr. Welch said his opponent was all right, but he had got into fast comany-he had been running with Mr. Will McMillan.

This remark brought Mr. McMillan to his feet and he started toward the fifth ward candidate. It looked as if trouble would follow, but the candidate and citizen were kept apart and peace was restored. It was stated after the meeting that Mr. McMillian addressed some personal remark to Mr. Weich, which caused the latter to draw his knife and put himself on the defensive. but there was no difficulty between the the size of the meeting. Mr. James L. Mayson, candidate for alderman from the south side, was the next speaker. He was followed by his opponent, Mr. Haas.

Dr. J. D. Turner, candidate for alder man on the north side, spoke next. He said he would know no ward lines in the aldermanic board.

Mr. Clyde L. Brooks, candidate for council from the sixth ward, was called for. He said he is an independent candidate, representing no faction or crowd. Mr. Thod Hammond, candidate in the sixth, said he had always lived in Atlanta and he had an honest ambition to represent his ward in the council.

Mr. Ed Wilson's Speech. Mr. Ed Wilson, candidate for council from the seventh ward, was the next speaker. He said he had challenged his pponents to settle the contest by having ward primary to ascertain the choice of the people of the seventh, but they had refused to accept. He said he is a civil en-gineer and wanted to be elected because no engineer had been in the council in twenty years. He wanted the best man to vin and he was seeking the office.

Mr. Nim McCullough, candidate from the fifth, spoke next. He said he was pleased to meet the third warders. He had entered the race late and would not have time to see all the voters. He knew he and a warhorse to fight, but he would beat

Mr. Welch to the council chamber.

Mr. Welch followed and was the last speaker. He said he had secured the ouilding of the Jones avenue bridge when in council before and that he worked for the interest of the whole city. PROMISES MADE IN THE PLATFORMS

Lively Incident in the Third Ward Distinctive Features of the Principles of New York's Candidates.

A SCENE, BUT NO TROUBLE NO VOICE DEFENDS STRONG

Incompetency and Inadequacy of the Present Administration.

OTHER DISTURBING ELEMENTS IN MEETING HOW CROKER IS HURTING TAMMANY

His Presence Precipitated Candidacy of George-If Sheehan Controlled, Tammany Would Win.

By Jos: Ohl. New York, October 6 .- (Special.)-The promise of reform in municipal affairs is held out in the platforms of three of the four candidates for the mayoralty. It is left to the straight republican platform to give a quasi indorsement of the present city administration, elected as it was by the republicans, though now repudiated by the republicans themselves when ever the opportunity presents itself. That is in private of course; they cannot well do it in public, though they would like to, especially since Mayor Strong has come out in favor of Low rather than Tracy. It would seem to the observer that the Low people are the ones who should have given indorsement to Strong. But nobody has seen fit to take the full responsibility for the present municipal administration and nobody will do so.

The only real feature of the Tracy platform is the declaration for the McKinley administration and the St. Louis platform. That was made for the purpose of keeping in line republicans who might otherwise go to Low-especially those in whose breasts here is hope of future preferment. The balance of the Tracy-Platt platform consists of meaningless platitudes, with the single and notable exception of a paragraph indorsing the Raines law. Bitter as is that pill to the republican politicians, they have had to swallow it; for the Raines law is a purely republican measure, and having enacted it, they have to make the best of the situation. This they do by declaring the law to be the right thing, and in saying it they drive off in a body the Germans, who in many campaigns have been their chief reliance.

Municipal Reforms Promised.

The Low platform promises all sorts of nunicipal reforms. It declares that the Raines law contains the germ of a good excise system, qualifying this declaration with promises that under the sway of the Citizens' Union something much better will be developed. The Cits arraign the Plattites for attempting to lug national issues into this purely municipal campaign and for themselves promise in general terms that the interests of the taxpayers will properly looked after if Low is made mayor. Tammany has put up the best platform of he three first entries, and if platforms counted for anything, the people of Greater New York would have been satisfied with Tammany's declarations and candidates, and there would have been no call from the masses for George. Tammany "points with pride" to the failures of the present "reform" administration and says that Tammany has done and can do again much worse than that. She promises economy of course, and she gives to the people assurances that under her rule their inter ests will be properly looked after in every respect. The popular demand that the municipality shall own all corporate franchises; that there shall be no parting with these rights, and that the price of gas shall be reduced to $1 a thousand, find strong expression in Tammany's platform. These declarations form a prominent part of the George platform. Indeed, in proriises, there is little difference between the two democratic platforms, and if the promises were to be taken as an indication of the standing of the parties, one might think that a coalition between the Gcorge and Tammany forces would be easy to accomplish. But as I see it, that is the one thing impossible in this campaign. I do not believe there are to be any further coalitions; if there are, it is more likely that Tammany and Platt wil get together than that the men who are supporting George will ever go to the Tammany ticket. The Only Possible Combination. Of course the Low people cannot con scientiously go to either Tammany or Platt, and if there is to be any further juggling, it seems to me that George will get the best of it. He is in the race to stay, whatever may happen. So indeed are each of the other candidates, so far as they know. There is no other place on earth, however, where boss rule is as absolute as it is here, with Tammany on the one side and Platt on the other, and no matter what the candidates of these two machines may think about it themselves, either could be pulled out of it if his boss so desired.

But there seems now no likelihood of

any further juggling by the bosses. Indeed there seems to be but one possible combination that can be made, and that does not seem even possible in view of the lengths to which the campaign has gone. That is a combination between the Low and George forces by which the Low vote would go to George. This now seems im possible, because the Low people still think their man has a chance to win. The shrewdest politicians in New York believe that, as things stand now, the Columbia president will be no better than fourth in the race. That is Senator Platt's estimate as he gave it tonight at the Fifth Avenue in taiking with an Ohio congressman. Platt has been very chary of making estimates for publication, but he was talking to a close friend, who told me that the "easy boss" is figuring Tracy to win, George for second place, Van Wyck third an

Low fourth. Popular Protest Against Croker There would doubtless have been a re volt from Tammany in any event, but it would not have assumed the proportion that it has except for the return of Croker

If it had not been for the appearance of the old Tammany boss, Henry George might have been induced not to enter the fight.

Rightly or wrongly, the impression had taken hold of the masses of democratic voters who are not members of the hig spoils society that Tammany, with Sheehan at its head, was better than Tammany under Croker. The course of Tammany in the last campaign was doubtlessly largely responsible for this feeling. That Tammany played straight, there can be no doubt; and Tammany has not always played straight. Sheehan is given the credit for this and he is regarded as a straighter and more honest man than the old chief, against whom the shafts of the enemy had been so long hurled. It may be of course that Croker is as innocent as a child unborn of all the sins that have been charged up to his account, but the charges have been so frequently made and the indictments have been so strong that a great many people believe them. Sheehan may not be a babe in innocence; he may even, in time, grow rich and have race horses of his own if Tammany should

Says That He Is Responsible Directly to the People. get in power while he is at its head; but he has not got rich yet, and the pleasure of the acquaintance of the prince of Wales not his. Hence the popular judgment is in his favor, and Tammany under Shee han would undoubtedly have stood a better chance than it does now, with Croker again at the reing

Ill Feeling Inside Tammany. For Croker is back and despite his decla ations to the contrary is in the saddle. This fact has created a good deal of ill teeling among the Tammany followers, who are inclined to hold up against the old boss the very palpable fact that he deserted, went off to England and his friend, the prince, when Tammany was in trouble and came back only when the chances of the organization had become bright. All of this is being talked inside the organization. Sheehan is sore and so are his close friends, but Croker is too strong to b thwarted and there is no open revolt While this feeling exists inside Tam many, it is not likely to cut any material figure in this contest, for the reason that while "the boys" are hungry, they are bound to play straight. If Tammany was n power you would see a revolt against Croker that would lend real spice to this campaign.

Croker's return has, however, hurt the organization on the outside Tammany has been put in power in the past by the votes of the laboring class, and upon those votes she has been relying in this campaign. There is good reason to believe that with Croker in England and Sheehan promising a rejuvenated Tammany the George movement would never have materialized and the Tammany candidates, clean men in themselves would have had a walkover That is where Croker has hurt much more than in the heartburnings he has brought inside Tammany.

The Raines Law and Parkhurst The Raines law in itself is cutting les figure in this contest than I expected. Platt indorses it and Tammany condemns t along with the other failures of the present regime, but the people do not talk of the law itself as much as the stranger n New York expects istration condemned. Sometimes Raines and his law are specified, but in business circles and among the men you meet in the natural order of things, there is a disposition to give the law credit for having done some good. The saloon men who are able to pay the license and the patrons of such places are inclined to think that the present excise conditions are not so bad, but of course the little fellows who have been driven from the business complain and their friends complain with them. Some features of the law are irksome t all save the well-to-do classes and doubtless before the end we will find the law a great issue, especially among the people of foreign birth. But just now the talk is more of other hings, because the Raines law is one of the least of the sins that can be legitimately charged up against the present adninistration. Inadequacy and incompeteny in all lines are charged, and not only charged, but proven. When you ask the resident of New York what special sin he charges up against Strong and his colleagues he will say nine times out of ten the Parkhurst plan of handling the social evil, which has resulted n-scattering "soubrettes" in respectable ocalities all oyer the city; in the arrest of innocent women in many instances; in a general system of sneaking and spying that has become most objectionable. The ncompetence shown in handling this question has disgusted many people who voted or Strong and "reform." They condemn n harsh terms the impractical efforts of the theorists in handling this very practi-al question. A Sample Opinion.

"Tammany is better," said a Wall street man well known in the south in discussing all last night. "Tammany wasted our money, but gave us a practical government and one fairly good; 'reform' has cost us just as much and has brought nothing but disgust. Tammany put our money in its pocket and if it made the women of the town pay tribute to its coffers, did not put them where they could flaunt their vice in the faces of our wives and daughters. Reform has taken our money and wasted it. Tammany may have stolen liberally, but reform has wasted just as liberally and in either case we are given nothing to show for our money." The newspapers are full these days of he incompetence of the officials who have charge of the streets. General Collis the commissioner of public works, is incidentaly on trial for allowing contractors to keep Fifth avenue and other prominent thoroughfares in a state of perpetual obstruc-tion. True the prosecutions are against the contractors because they can be reached, but there is a popular clamor for Collis's resignation, and it is going to bring

Other officials who went in under the cry of reform have proven equally bad and everywhere is there a protest against the conditions that make these things possible. The only one of the city officials who seems to have come up to expectations is Waring, and he is a democrat.

Cutting Against Low and Tracy. This feeling of protest is cutting against both the Low and the Tracy movements for the reason that it is the result of a combination of the forces that are now behind these two gentlemen. Were they or posed by a single democratic candidate there would be no doubt of his success. Had Croker stayed in England and had Tammany named a man who stood for something more than merely the Tammany machine—some such man as Sheehan wanted—the result of the fight would have been a foregone conclusi

SETH LOW OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN

Speaks to a Big Audience in New York

HE IS ALLIED WITH NO PARTY

TAMMANY, HE DECLARES, IS COWARDLY

Alraid To Accept Silver and Afraid To Reject It-Talks of Tracy's Candidacy.

New York, October 6 .- Seth Low, Citiens' Union candidate for mayor, tonight pened his campaign at a large and enhusiastic mass meeting held in Cooper inioa. The hall was packed by men and women, all seemingly in favor of the Citizens' Union movement. Mr. Low was received with round after round of cheers as he entered the hall.

Among the vice presidents were William Brookfield, James C. Carter, W. Bayard Cutting, Joseph H. Choate, John Claffin, Jeel B. Erhardt Dorman B. Eaton, Richard Watson Gilder, Henry E. Howland, William B. Hornblower, Anson G. McCook, Wheeler H. Peckham, Herman Ridder, J. H. Roades, J. R. Roosevelt, Elihu Root, Carl Schurz, Oscar S. Strauss, Jacob H. Schiff and Everett P. Charles Stewart Smith called the meeting to order and made the opening speech. Joseph Larocque made a long speech, during which the audience manifested its impatience to hear Mr. Low. Carl Schurz delivered a long address, which was enthusiastically received. State Senator Charles Guy spoke for the home rule de-mocracy. Seth Low was then introduced. It was several minutes before he be heard, so enthusiastic was his recep-tion. When order was restored the can-tion. When order was restored the candidate smilingly thanked the large audience for its kindness. Mr. Low had a carefully prepared speech covering several pages of typewritten manuscript. He stated, however, that owing to the lateness of the hour and a desire not to detain the audience unreasonably he would curcuit his remarks.

Mr. Low paid his respects to the other mayoraity candidates and spoke of the benefits the city would derive from a reform administration. Continuing, he said:

"There are four tickets in the field. Two of them, the ticket headed by General Tracy and the ticket headed by Henry George, openly proclaim the doctrine that in the solution of this tremendous municipal problem that confronts the city of New York, national Issues and not the local Issues ought to dominate in the minds of the voters. General Tracy is against Bryanism, and Henry George is for it. Both of these gentlemen propose certain things for the city. Nevertheless, they say, both of ism, and Henry George is for it. Both of, these gentlemen propose certain things for the city. Nevertheless, they say, both of them, that the city's interests are not the paramount issue, and that the voter ought to cast his ballot primarily with reference to national issues.

"No man can serve two masters, and if the people of the city elect a mayor because of the views he entertains on the free coinage of silver and all the rest, they must not be surprised if the mayor they elect subordinates the interests of the city to the exigencies of the party to which he belongs.

'Curiously enough, in this campaign Tammany Hall in its platform has confined itself strictly to local issues, as has the Citizens' Union. But everybody understands that Tammany has done this only because it has not dared to come out either for the Chicago platform of its party or against it.

"There is one point as to which Tammany, the republican organization and the adherents of Henry George are all agreed. With one voice they proclaim the doctrine that the administration of the city ought to be responsible to some party, as they put it, and not directly to the people themselves. I stand for direct and continuous responsibility on the part of the city officials to the people themselves."

ARE LEAVING THE WIGWAM. Tammany Men Sending in Their Resignations. New York, October 6.-Colonel William L. Brown, publisher of The Daily News, has written a letter to John C. Sheehan, resinging as member of the Tammany Hall executive committee. In his letter of resignation Colonel Brown accuses Mr. Sheehan of having apparently surrendered his leadership and gives as his reason for resigning that the present conditions in Tammany Hall do not, in his opinion, justify his continuance in active nembership in the organization. William Hepburn Russell, a prominent member of Tammany Hall, resigned yester-! day. W. J. O'Sullivan, a member of Tammany Hall's general committee, tonight resigned from the organization. He gave his reasons in a letter to Bernard F. Martin, chairman of the general committee, in which he said that the organization has surrendered all claims to true democracy and is corrupt in politics. He also says the most strained interpretation of the term. It is reported tonight that Democratic National Committeeman Ainslee, of Idaho, has sent a telegram declaring it to be his opinion that the Henry George democracy should be recognized as the regular party

Smash the Tickets. Now that the city election is almost at hand, it is well to remember that the greatest duty of the hour is to smash the "tickets." Perhaps there has never been an election held in Atlanta in which there was less of "ticket" and more of personality. At the same time there was never a period when it was more important to scrutinize the personality of a campaign than it is at this moment. The city is primarily a great business interest, in which interest the fortunes of all its people are involved. In selecting men who are to take charge of this great and controlling work, all of that care which is exercised in the control of private business should be emphasized by an even stronger scrutiny. As the city has grown through the varying decades of population until it has reached and passed the one-hundred thousand post, the importance of this public trust has grown into gigantic proportions. The citizen feels it in the water he drinks, in the light by which he reads, in the protection which he gets from police and fire departments, in the schools which educate his children and in the taxation which he has to meet for all the essential calls of government. Surely in selecting men to take charge of such important interests no vote will be lightly cast, and no man will give his confidence to one as a city councilman to whom he would be unwilling to intrust the administratorship of his per-and orphan children in case of death. There will be "tickets" urged in the coming election, arranged variously for certain purposes, but the duty of the voter upon going to the polls is to recognize no ticket, but to vote for just such men as he would be willing to have in charge of his own personal affairs. Too much importance cannot be attached to this phase of the case. If there is a duty in which Americans have often failed, it is in that of the exercise of the ballot. Too often are men led astray by misleading alliances which claim to represent something under the cloak of forwarding private schemes or personal

sonal estate or the welfare of his widow

Let Atlantians rally to the polls for the good of Atlanta, remembering that there is no ticket in the field with any claim upon their recognition, but that from among the names which will appear on the various tickets they should each one make up his own, and make it up in the spirit of a man who is attending to a solemn trust, which has been committed to him for the good of all and for the private benefit of none. There are good names to select from, and the duty rests upon the people to pick fiem out and to see that they are the ones which will answer to the roll call on the meeting of the first counpaign every evidence points to the fact that there has been less of this kind of campaigning than in any similar campaign for years. The election broker is a comparatively insignificant feature of this campaign, and he will play but little part in tomorrow's election. The indications are that we will have tomorrow one of the cleanest elections held here for a long time, and it is chiefly significant for the fact that the formed that The Constitution could "go situation is not dominated by factional alignment.

The Coming Sea Power.

During the past two years the little island kingdom of Japan has come to the front with astonishing rapidity. In the current number of The North American Review Mr. Charles H. Camp abide by the action of the council?" discusses at some length the extraordinary growth of the Japanese empire, and speaks of it as "the coming sea-power." Whether or not the writer intends by val supremacy of Great Britain does not fully appear from the article, but the phrase itself would seem to indicate it. Mr. Camp states that since the late war with China Japan has added five powerful war vessels to her fleet, giving her at the present time forty-eight war vessels aggregating 111,000 tons displacepan has barely commenced upon her naval preparations; and, if she carries out her naval fleet in 1903 will embrace six- in the minds of many, there is now real-all something over $90,000,000. Evidently the little island kingdom is ent upon controlling the waters of the Asiatic Pacific and of adding to its present territory whatever possessions there may happen to be within its reach,

An Unseasonable Greeting.

The secretary and treasurer of the Atlanta Baggage and Cab Company has been complaining that his company has been treated unjustly by The Constitution in its demand that the unanimous action of the council in fixing a uniform rate of delivery of baggage to any part of the city, be sustained. A elever little trap had been set by which the council was to be induced to reconsider its action and establish a "compromise" rate which would permit the baggage monopoly having exclusive possession of depot privileges to charge more than competitors not so fortunately situated.

The council refused, by unanimous vote, to reconsider its action in fixing Jacob Haas, who has been doing the talking for the company, might have no possible ground for complaint that he had not been given opportunity to present his side of the question, a Constitution reporter called on him on Tuesday to inquire if his company would further contest the ordinance or gracefully yield to the inevitable and accept the action of the council. But Mr. Haas was not talking-at least not to The Constitution; and this is what he had to say:

I HAVE NO INFORMATION TO GIVE OTHER SUBJECT. SO FAR AS 1 AM CONCERNED, THE CONSTITUTION CAN GO TO HELL.

This was said by Mr. Haas only a ew minutes after he had returned from the Yom Kippur exercises of Tuesday We fear that he did not apnight. proach the solemn services of this most nteresting occasion in the proper spirit; for had he been truly in the mood to do justice to the occasion in meeting the requirements of this happy season, his been more in keeping with the spirit which should characterize the salutations of the New Year. Instead of having told The Constitution that it could "go to hell." Mr. Haas should have joyously wished it a "Happy New Year" and accepted The Constitution's good wishes in return. The Constitution will not "go to hell" -not now, any way. It has other bustime its attention is directed to the overthrow of the effort which has in view the depot baggage monopoly which seeks to charge more for baggage delivery regulated by legitimate business compe-Until this matter is finally posed of, The Constitution will not have Haas's invitation for it to "go to hell."

On September 29th, Mr. Haas, speaking for and by authority of his company, wrote as follows:

ned, this purely business question will be brought before the next council, as present council is PERFECTLY CAPA-E TO DEAL WITH THE SUBJECT. Is I state by authority of the stockhold-and board of directors of the Atlanta ggage and Cab Company.

Now the city council has by unanimous vote refused to reconsider its action. The ordinance committee to which was referred the petition for authority to charge increased rates, which Mr. Haas says "the committee in charge has recommended," refused point-blank to make any such recommendation. Whatever may have been the original intention of the committee, it unanimously agreed to stand by the action of the council when it was found that actual business competition had regulated the price of baggage delivery to the uniform rate fixed by the council When the committee found that other companies had not only accepted the council rate of 25 cents, but that they were actually delivering baggage to a large part of the city at even a less rate than that. it very properly and promptly turned down the application which sought to put the city in the attitude of legaliz-

It was to ascertain this that a Constitution reporter called on Mr. Haas on Tuesday. He got no information, nor even did he get the traditional cold potato; but he was into hell."

"If," said Mr. Haas, on the 28th ultimo, "the council decides against the company, I will submit."

"The present council is perfectly capable to deal with the subject," said Mr. Haas on the 29th ultimo.

Once More.

The Macon Telegraph again turns its attention to The Constitution. In this instance it calls attention to the fact that a pot-metal establishment in New York is engaged in supplying ready-made editorial articles to a large number of daily and weekly newspapers through out the country. Among these The Telegraph (which is entirely familiar with the pot-metal and plate-matter business in all its various ramifications) has discovered one which, according to its morbid conception of matters and things shows what harm The Constitution has uniform rate; and in order that Mr. done to the reputation of Georgia by its discussion of the report on the misde meanor camps made by Governor Atkin son's special commissioner.

The Telegraph thereupon reproduces from its pot-metal resources an article which is, in the main, a synopsis of the official report of the special commission er, and then holds up its hands in hor ror, not because of the wholesale violations of the law, but because The Constitution has discussed and commented on the disclosures made in the official report of the special commissioner. True to its purpose to misrepresent and falsify on every possible and impossible occasion, the Telegraph makes this statement: "It will be remembered that The Constitution charged that a certain grand jury in Georgia was guilty of complicity in the murder of a convict by refusing to indict the guards who murdered the man in their keeping." This is untrue. The charge was officially made by the governor's special The Constitution said commissioner. greeting to The Constitution would have that if the charge was true, as made and reported, the jury was guilty of complicity in the murder. The truth, it will be seen, is quite different from The Telegraph's statement. It is inevitable that The Telegraph should take a mean and narrow view of every question that comes up for discussion. It is built on that plan. All sensible men and women who are interested in the good name of the state know iness on hand, and just at the present that the reform which has just taken place in the management of the misdemeanor convicts as the result of public the grinding of the traveling public by discussion and the activity of the governor is one of the most wholesome events that has ever occurred in the than the rate fixed by the council, and state. We make this statement without no place of exchange the ornaments regard to the treatment accorded the convicts.

The violation of the law is an evil ime to even seriously consider Mr. and a danger whether it be carried out on the retail plan, or according to wholesale methods. All that the misdemeanpetty crime, but they violated the law. Those who rented them out to private parties also violated the law, and the scale on which they did it was calculated to do more damage to the reputation of the state than any discussion having for its purpose the vindication of the law.

Such reforms cannot be made except at the point of public discussion, and the more public the discussion the more certain the reform. The old saying, 'It is an ill bird that befouls its nest," true enough when rightly applied, but it is a nastier bird that, finding its nest befouled, refuses to clean it out. The poor old Telegraph should beat in mind that there were others besides The Constitution engaged in the work of putting an end to the wholesale violation of the convict law. The Constitution, as we have said on other ocea-If was simply engaged in holding up the hands of the governor. Everybody remembers this fact except The Telegraph

The Value of Money.

The following from The New York Daily Financial News is worth giving here, for it contains a fact which some well-meaning people find difficult to get in their heads. Our director of the mint, Mr. Preston, roneously said Saturday, while commenting upon the difference between the commercial and coinage value of the East India silve rupee: "It is the paper representative of th silver coin that appreciates in value. The reason, I suppose, is that the holders look ultimately to its redemption in gold. We treat the five-franc French plece just as we do the United States dollar. They have the gold standard in that country, and keep the five-franc piece, which is a full legal ten-der, at full value, and we give it that in our (treasury value) estimate." Seemingly Director Preston has a theory to maintain and to maintain it he twists the facts. Paper rupees have nothing to do with the matter. The reason the silver rupee is worth 5 or 6 pence more than its commercial value is that the English India government has by law conferred that 4 or 5 pence more legal tender value in it than the bullion commercial value calls for. Its ultimate redemption into gold has nothing to do with the question, any more than is the case with the five-franc piece. Both coins are valued in their respective countries at exactly what each country will receive them for in taxes or duties. That is what full legal tender means, and it alone is what constitutes the value of any coin.

Gold redemption business is an illusion and a trap. It has nothing whatever to do with the true value of what constitutes Only the misinformed or those incapable of comprehending the issues or those hav-ing an ax of their own to grind assert the contrary. All this is a question of fact, not politics, theory or opinion. This fact was completely established during the war by the experience of the government and the banks with the $60,-000,000 of greenbacks which were made full legal tender, the law under which clause"-that is to say, they were full legal tender for all public and private debts, no matter what money the hold made a contract payable in gold, that debt was satisfied under the law when

Now these greenbacks never did dethe fact was so alarming to the New York bankers that they made haste to corral the entire issue, and to use it among themselves and in their transequivalent of gold. Just as soon as they could they had these legal tenders retired, and, having the whip-hand of the government in the matter of finanbacks shall be a legal tender for ty-seven war vessels, heavily armored, ly no such doubt. However, if debts public and private "unless otherwise specified in the contract," or words | LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

But, even with this exception clause the greenbacks never would have depreclated but for the fact that the banks, in order to provide for the payment in gold of the interest on the bonds they held, insisted that the government should make customs duties payable in gold. When this law was passed the value of gold become a matter of speculation. The gold room was instituted, and the demand of importers being out of proportion to the amount available for sale, county of Middlesex as well as the city the price of the metal bobbed up and of London, and holds its sittings eight down the same as any other speculative stock listed on the stock exchange. Combinations sent it up or down, according as they were strong or weak. But it should be remarked that all that time, when gold was out of circulation, and the speculators were sending the price of it up or down, the people were enjoying great prosperity. The greenbacks performed all the functions money, and it would have made no difference to the people if the speculators had put the price up 200 per cent. Prices were not measured nor expressed in gold and did not bob up and down with the price of gold. They were measured in greenbacks, and the measure was stable enough, and the expression fair enough to create prosperity

We should think that these facts of history would be sufficient to convince any sensible man as to the real source of the value of money and of the demand therefor. What the gold men call 'sound" money is that which, by its increased value, produces low prices and business depression. And although they are now gleefully acclaiming over the higher price of wheat, they would still call the gold dollar "sound" money if wheat were bringing 10 cents a bushel.

The Situation in India.

Professor A. S. Ghosh, who fills the chair of economics in the University of Calcutta, contributes a highly interesting article to the current North American Review on the results of silver dcmonetization in India.

The facts given by Professor Ghosh sustain in the completest degree the re- dais fired result of a scarcity of food as it is of a scarcity of money. The people of India have a custom of hoarding silver different from that of civilized countries. Instead of placing it in banks, they convert rupees into bangles, armlets, bracelets and other simple ornaments which require small skill for their manufacture. So long as the mints were open, they could take these ornaments to the village silversmith and exchange them, weight for weight, into rupees. If there were would pass current instead of rupees, each party knowing that the mint would convert them into rupees on representation. In this way the famine of 1877 was shorn of some of its severity. But now these ornaments are no longer exchangeable into money. Demonetization has wrought a total loss of half the savings of the people of India. With half the value of their savings destroyed, and with small demand for the remainder, the results of the famine have been and are still most appalling. The people who thought they had money have none. That which was equal to money has been stripped of half its value, and the unfortunates are ir no condition to cope with the famine. The curse of the gold standard has fallen on them, and their sufferings cry out to heaven for justice.

This may be slow in coming, but it will surely come. As certain as the Lord rules, the promoters of the gold standard who have robbed the poor of the world on a scale hitherto unknown and undreamed of, will have to face heaven's justice.

The South's Opportunity.

Our industrial supremacy is slowly but surely receiving substantial recognition. A recent dispatch from Australia states that the government of New South Wales has decided, after carefully investigating the steel products of Great Britain, Germany and the United States, to make its purchases in this market, and that, accordingly, an order for 2,000 tons of the best American steel rails will shortly be placed with one of our leading industrial establishments. What a splendid opportunity for the south does this growing appreciation of our American steel products offer! A the present time most of the steel products exported from this country are manufactured in the northeast; but why country should any other section of the outstrip the south in the manufacture of steel products when nature has lavishly endowed our soil with iron ore and made it possible for us to produce the finest quality of steel in existence? This statement is made in no provincial or narrow-minded spirit, but in sober regard for the undisputed truth. Our soil is literally encumbered with granite, marble, iron, coal and other minerals, and nothing is needed to develop these resources but capital. Steel of a better quality can be made at less cost in the south than in the north, and why should capital hesitate for any greater length of time than is absolutely needed to establish this fact? The south has already made gratifying progress in the steel industry, but the field is a broad one, and only a small part of it has yet been taken. As with steel, so with other industries Imbedded in our scil there is material enough to warrant ten times the activity which is now going on in the south With her feet planted upon exhaustless stores of mineral wealth, the south extends a cordial invitation to the enterprising spirits of all sections of the country, and she agrees to recompense them richly for whatever capital they may bring to the development of her resources.

The "Old Bailey." Constitution—What is the "Old in London, and what is its his-Bailey" in London, and what is to tory?

EDWARD SMITH.

The "Old Bailey" is the name of a street

The "Old Bailey" is the name of a street in London extending from Newgate prison to Ludgate hill. Immediately adjoining the prison is the building in which the central criminal court is held, better known as the Old Bailey sessions court. It is the court to which the term "Old Bal-ley" is usually applied in literature. The jurisdiction of this court includes the times a year. The present "Old Balley" building was erected in 1773 and enlarged in 1808. The name is supposed to be of very ancient derivation and to have originated in the fact that this site was origi-nally outside of the fortification of the city and known by the Romans as "vallum." From this word came the ballium, applied in the middle ages to the outs de wall of defense about a feudal castle. Later the outer lines of defenses of castle or city were known as the "out bailey," and the line within, surrounding the inner wall, was called the bailey." The London prison and co were originally within the ancient bailey of the city wall between Ludgate and History tells us nothing of Captain Landais, except that he was a Frenchman, whose bad temper had led to his discharge from the French navy, and who, at the time he was placed in command the Alliance, was so unpopular that t was difficult to get Americans to serve under him. Captain Landais showed great jealousy of Jones in regard to his leadership in the squadron against Great Brit-ain, and had shown insubordination and even a mutinous spirit. In the famous battle while the Richard tashed to the Serapis, was pouring deadly shot into the enemy's vessel, the Alliance, Captain Landais, approached and, sailing around the struggling combatants, delivered several broausides, in such a way as to injure both vessels equally. "It Failed."

From The Americus Times-Recorder. The vicious effort to eliminate The Atlanta Constitution from the democratic party seems to have failed.

POINTS BY THE WAY.

Tempora mutantur! Alas, for the days that were! Forte Haec olim meminisse juvabit! Oc! for the glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome; and oh!

for the departed halo of Tom Watson. With his countenance carved into acrid sharpness by the acetic customs which he has recently developed the ylome leader of populism appeared in Atlanta yesterday. There was no cringling delegation to await his nod. Like an ordinary mortal he passed and no smiling sycophants crowded to jolly him, or pump into his eager ear the secrets of some political move.

One year ago the presence of Tom Watson in Atlanta caused a sensation that nothing short of a south Georgia cyclone could equal. His coming was heralded with great enthusiasm and his arrival came with much pomp and circumstance. He was to be the next vice president. The fates had decreed it, and Watson would move forward with a victorious stride. Alas! for the days that were. But Watson does not sound any sigh of regret. He has dropped his political raiment and is now a simple barrister. The man from Mc-Duffee will no longer be led astray by false hopes. He has struck a firm foundation in law and is calling up the lore of the library which he once threatened to burn. What promises to develop into an important movement has just been undertaken by the Horticultural Society of the state and concerns the mission which brought Dr. John P. Campbell, of the State university, to Atlanta yesterday. Dr. Campbell is on an inspection tour of the nurseries of the state and is giving special attention to peach trees. The significance of this inspection will be shown in a bill which will probably come before the next house providing for the examination of all fruit trees brought into the state. This measure will be taken to prevent the great injury now threatened to the fruit trees of Georgia from the ravages of a small insect which is peculiarly fatal to the peach. It is said that large orchards in certain sections of the state are diseased and that thousands of trees have been killed by the presence of this insifuous insect. In order to guard against the spread of this disease and to devise some method for its extermination the Horticultural Society has taken action. Dr. Campbell has undertaken to make the inspection and will probably make a report as to the character of the reported disease now said to be prevalent in certain sections. While in Atlanta yesterday he made a trip to several nurseries near here, but found nothing to excite suspicion as to the presence of the insect. He will visit the most prominent fruit growing sections of the state before his return and will look over the large orchards near Fort Valley. Already most of the states have laws egarding the importation of fruit trees, and Virginia and North Carolina have stringent regulations regarding inspection before introduction. A bill of this nature will probably be framed soon, and put in force in Georgia. The tour of Dr. Campbell is of far-reaching interest.

As to the university, Dr. Campbell states that there is a registration far in excess of the list at this time last year, and that the prospects for a much larger attendance is good. The men have settled down to their studies in en enthuslastic way, and are accomplishing much. As to athletics the football team promises to be notable and, the new coach, backed by Tichenor, is bringing out material which can go up against anything in the south.

Mr. George Scoville has been off on a short run to Virginia, where he has been resting, up with his brother of Green Brier White. The trip although short was made to answer the purpose of a vacation and the brief relaxation from the strain of hotel duties will bring the manager of the Kimball back in good

From the account of several enthusiasts who have traveled down from the Blue Ridge they are casting pearls before swine in north Georgia, and it is said that every hog wallow is studded with precious gems. This literal interpretation of the antiquated metaphor comes from the superabundance of fresh water mussels and the pluperfect enlargement of mountaineer imagination. The north Georgia rivers have out-Yukoned Yukon, and to the people of that region Klondike is but a passing fancy, a midsummer dream, when compared to the rich promises of the daisled dells of Dalton.

The excitement in certain sections of Murray county is reported to be intense The worm in the still no longer pours forth its nocturnal draught, and the makers of moonshine no longer look after the essence of corn, but are traversing bonnie braes in mad search for shell fish. Moss-covered mussels have been excavated, and it is said that some of the inhabitants have gone so far as to chase hardshell turtles with the hope that they m.gnt find precious gems imbedded in their backs. An Atlanta dealer who has just returned from this region pictures the excitement in a startling way. He brought back several specimens of very great value. The mountaineers are putting forth assiduous efforts; and some say that the low water of the Chattahoochee and the complaint of the Columbus people is brought about by the pearl hunters splashing the waters of the head streams n search for gems.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITOL

Governor Keeps Hands Off. Not only the editors of Greater New York newspapers, but the heavyweight politicians of Greater New York as well are working the telegraph instrument these days in an effort to induce Governor Atkinson to give an expression of opinion concerning the present mayoraty contest in that homogeneous community. This does not mean that the governor is being especially favored in this respect or that it is within his power to make or the power to or that it is within his power to make or unmake mayors in Atlanta's most con-spicuous municipal rival. It means simply that the editors and the politicians of the big city are telegraphing to every prom-nent democratic official throughout the country seeking to obtain from him a partisan whoop that will help them in the present conflict.

But Governor Atkinson won't bite The tangled condition of New York's municipal tangled condition in past one which translations in past of the pal situation is not one which invites his interference, and, in reference to the matter, he said yesterday:

"The only interest I have in the campaign is the hope I feel that the democrats will win. That hope is sincere I know nothing of the local conditions, but it should be the effort of all good demo-crats to get together on a candidate, whether Judge Van Wyck or Mr. George be ultimately selected. Both of them voted for Mr. Bryan, and that puts them in line with the real democracy and makes them available as candidates. The question of gold and silver does not enter into a purely municipal contest, but the know nothing of the local condi into a purely municipal contest, but the prestige of democratic victory in Greater New York will mean a great deal party in the approaching state and na-

Some Penitentiary Advice.

The governor has practically completed his message to the legislature, but Is revising it and working on it during all his spare time. That portion of it which deals with the convict question he will have print. ed in advance and mailed to all the members of the legislature as soon as possible. It will probably reach them the first of next week, in ample time for use by the members who will attend the joint conference of the penitentiary committee of the house and senate in this city on October 25th. It will urge the adoption of a bil drawn on the lines of that presented by Representative Hall, and incorporating the ideas which the governor communicated to the joint committees at their recent session.

Pardon Board Favored.

Hon. R. W. Freeman, of Coweta, has made an important suggestion to the effect that the penitentiary commission when created be charged with the duties of a pardoning board. He will introduce a bill to that effect in the legislature. The governor has about five hundred pardon application a year, and the examination of records necessary to an intelligent consideration of these cases involves great labor, inconsisent with proper attention to the other do. ties of the chief executive.

The governor approves Mr. Freeman's suggestion and will recommend it to the legislature. He thinks the commission should be given reasonable discretion and should be charged with considerable responsibility. Only in this way, he thinks, will it be possible to secure the services of men of real ability, and he believes the success of the new penitentiary system depends very largely upon the character and abl ity of the men charged with the execution of the plan adopted and the administration of penitentiary affairs under the new err-

The Jekyl Island Kick. Among the visitors at the capitol yester-day was Judge Bolling Whitfield, of Brunwick, who, with his partner, Judge Crovatt are the legal representatives in that city of the Jekyl Island Club. Judge Whitfield was asked if the wealthy Jekyl island folks were in earnest in their proposition to purchase Little Cumberland island in order o keep the state from using it as a olony, and he replied: "That is a matter which I know very li tle about, except what I have read in the newspapers. Convicts are not very desirable neighbors, and I am not at all sur prised that the members of the Jely Island Club do not want a penal colony lo cated at their doors. Little Cumberland island would be a valuable possession for vict question. It effectually shuts them of from the rest of the world, and makes as them, however, without regard to the excellent game preserve. As to the inter-tion of the members to purchase it, however, I know absolutely nothing.

Mrs. Longstreet Wasn't There. ARMORY COMMITTEES NAMED

Atlanta Companies Have Taken Action To Further Scheme.

PLAN TO BE ADOPTED TOMORROW

Meeting Will Be Held and the Representatives Will Commence Active Work for Their Home.

The committees which are to draw up and adopt the plan for the building of the Fifth regiment armory have been appointed by the company commanders and will hold dler in Edgewood tomorrow night.

It was decided at the mass meeting of the regiment held on Saturday that five men from each company should be selected and make the final arrangements for the purpose of raising the money to build themselves a home. Some of the com; inles have not yet taken action, but will in time to have a delegation at the meeting. The following companies have taken action and appointed the committees: Atlanta Grays, Captain W. C. Massey, "irst Lieu-tenant Davis. Second Liuetenant Stokes, Sergeant Hadley and Corporal Thompson. apital City Guards, Captain W. W. Barker. Lieutenant Booth, Sergeant Foster, Sergeant Singleton and Private Walker. Hibernian Rifles, Captain W. D. Ellis, Sergeant Erskine, Sergeant Dryson, Corporal Gillespie and Privates Keeney and O'Brien. ate City Guard, Captain J. Van Holt Nash, Lieutenant Ripley, Sergeant Cohen and Privates Harrison and Boyd.

The out-of-towr companies, which are the LaGrange Light Guard, Griffin Rifles, Newnan Guard, Marietta Rifles and Barnesille Blues, will be represented by Colonel Candler, and he will act for them. They will help to make the armory auditorium a ccess, but the Atlanta companies will do the greater part of the work. The enthusiasm is increasing daily among the boys and the handsome home for them will be up in a short while. The matter of raising money is what they will arrange at ext meeting and a good plan which has already been arranged will be carried MOTION FOR CHANGE OF VENUE This Will Be Heard in Delk Case by Judge Beck.

Mr. Charles J. Haden will appear before Judge Beck at Zebulon today and present a motion for change of venue in the case of Taylor Delk, whose trial is or next Monday at that place. The ground on which the charge of venus is requested will be that an impartial trial cannot be obtained in Pike county on account of the strong feeling of the people against the defendant. The fact that Delk has been convicted and sentenced three times.

e brought out Delk's attorneys will make a strong plea for their client and will bring every argument to bear on their position. They believe they can clear Delk in any other county, and for this reason will make stringent efforts to obtain the change of ee times in the court at Zebulon will

Attorney Haden, while he can by no means predict the outcome of the hear-ing of the motion, is hopeful that Judge Beck will grant it and try Delk in an-other county. If the change of venue is obtained it is very likely that Delk will be tried at Forsyth in Monroe county. The subpoenas in the Delk and Lang-ford cases have not yet been issued on account of the fact that until the decision of the judge is rendered it will not be known Where the case will be tried.

FOUND TRUE BILL FOR TOM BLODGETT

Republican Rebel.

Several Men Claim To Be Victims of | While the Bride Was Ready, He Slum-Blodgett's Confidence Game.

CLAIMED TO BE GEORGIA REVENUE COLLECTOR

So Says the Indictment-Charged That He Sold Promises of Jobs for $25 Each.

Fraud, misrepresentation and felony is the charge made against Tom Blodgett in a true bill found against the lively republican in the United States court yesterday. The sensational indictment fell with surprising force among the members of the republican party. Blodgett has been a leader of one faction and has been one of the most active of his party in Georgia. The charge against Blodgett is peculiar and complicated. It accuses him of representing himself to be the United States internal revenue collector for the collection district of Georgia, and with selling his promises to give men positions in the revenue department.

The indictment alleges that Blodgett secured $100 from one party and different amounts at different times from other persons, and that in return he promised the parties whom he was alleged to be defrauding, to give them positions as deputy collectors, collectors and as clerks. There are just six counts in the indictment. All of the counts charge different crimes, but all for the same general of-

Blodgett was not arrested. He went to the United States marshal's office and was around the building all day. The warrant was put in the hands of a deputy marshal. but Mr Johnson took it out of the deputy's hands and instructed Blodgett to appear in court this morning and give bond. The marshal did this out of consideration for Blodgett's feelings, as he felt certain that the defendant would not seek to escape the

The specific charges of the bill of indictment are very interesting. They show that Blodgett was either a very shrewd charac-ter, or that his alleged victims were exremely dense and burdened with a wealth of ignorance to be buncoed by such a me as they now claim was perpetrated on them by Blodgett.

The first count charges that Blodgett did fraudulently, willfully and feloniously represent himself to be an officer of the United States government with the right to make certain appointments paying salaries ranging from $75 to $125. It is alleged that he promised M L. Thacker a job at a salary of $75 per month and that he represented to Thacker that he (Thacker) must pay him $100 before the job would be given. It is said that he demanded and obtained the money from Thacker on these false

The second count alleges that on April 18th, of the present year, Blodgett claimed to be the United States internal revenue collector for the collection district of Geor-gia and that he had the appointment of deputies and clerks: that he offered to give A. R. Mosteller a position, and that he made Mosteller give him $25.

The third count claims that on April 15th Blodgett went to Mosteller and represented that he was collector and promised to give Mosteller's son a clerkship in the revenue department. It is further charged that he emanded and obtained $25 for the promise o give young J. W. Mosteller a clerkship The fourth count alleges that on August 25th Blodgett made new and different representations to Mosteller; that he pretended to be general deputy collector and chief deputy, with the authority to appoint deputies at $90 per month; that he again promised Mosteller's son. J. W. Mosteller, a place and again buncoed the old man out

Old man Mosteller's desire for a job for nimself and son led him to invest another $25 in Blodgett's promises, according to the indictment. The fifth count alleges that on September 18th Blodgett pretended to Mos-teller that he was chief deputy under Henry A. Rucker; that he had A. R. Mosteller's commission as deputy collector in his possession duly signed by Rucker and that he was authorized by Rucker to deliver the commission upon payment of another $25. Mosteller was anxious to get his commission and he paid the $25 if the bill of indictment is true. The woes of another victim are told in count six. This count charges that Blodgett claimed to be general collector and chief deputy and that he worked Sidney R. Dickson to the ditty of $25; that he represented to Dickson that he had Dickson's commission as deputy collector in his pocket; that it was duly signed and would be delivered upon the payment of the $25. None of these innocent characters got the jobs they say they were promised and they have been constantly clamoring for their money back. The complaints of all the men were filed with the grand jury and the bill of indictment was drawn yesterday. Blodgett says that he knows nothing

BAGGAGE CASES ARE PUT OFF

Judge Anderson Agrees To Postponement Until Next Week.

COMPANY'S ATTORNEY ABSENT

He Asks That the Trial Be Put Off a Few Days and Judge Anderson Consents.

The trial of the cases against the Atlanta Baggage and Cab Company for violation of the Rice ordinar ce regulating the charge for baggage delivery in the city limits, will probably not take place until early next week. The defendant company's attorney has requested that the trial be put off a few days on account of his inability to be present this week. Judge Anderson, city attorney, states that Mr. Hoke Smith, attorney for the baggage company, is out of the city and is engaged in another court and that Mr. Smith has requested that the cases be put off a few days. Judge Anderson has consented to this and he said yesterday the cases will probably be called in the police court early next week. The postponement of the trial will be in the nature of a surprise to citizens interested in the matter. It was announced that as soon as the council disposed of the question of amending the Rice ordinance the cases would be taken up at once and disposed of. The final outcome of the cases will be watched with interest.

CAME TO THE ALTAR BEHIND TIME A PISTOL SHOT WOUND CAUSES DEATH

He Was Off on the Next Train, However, and Now He Is Happily Married.

"A train, a train; my kingdom for a train!" Thus spoke Engineer W. T. Hyer, of the Western and Atlantic railroad, when the bright sunlight of his wedding day awoke him at 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

When Mr. Hyer arrived on this mundane sphere from the land of Nod he was be- face and another in his body, which added hind schedule time about six hours and had an important engagement to fill. In fact, it was the most important engage- flesh. ment of his life. It was the day of days in his life and the engagement that he had some several miles away was with a party that he would not have disappointed for all his worldly goods. In fact, it was an engagement to give all his worldly goods away, and he was scheduled at 11 o'clock to say those solemn words, "With all my worldly goods I thee endow." Mr. Hyer was to have been married at 11 o'clock, but his bride-to-be was at Tilton, Ga., and he was in Atlanta. The next train would not get him there until 1 o'clock, and while the bride waited he tore his hair and tried to dodge his friends. It happened in this way:

W. T. Hyer is one of the most popular and reliable railroad engineers that pull throttles on the Western and Atlantic railsteel steed flying over the rails letween Chottanooga and Atlanta. He has more friends than there are crossites on the road. Every time he passed a station as left a friend behind, and one time at the station of Tilton he left a friend dearer than all the rest. Day after day passed and every time that he passed the station the friendship grew until at last his friend premised to be his wife. Mr. Hyer owns a nice farm it Tilton and his neighbor was Miss Lizzie Kieth, and yesterday she became Mrs. Hyer. But not until a very annoying dificulty had been overcome.

Tuesday night Mr. Hyer came in off of the last run that he would ever make as a single man and began to propure for the happy event the next day. The last pas-senger train had gone up to litten tettre he reached the city, but that did not amount to anything, for at 1 o clock in the morning there is a freight train that goes up that way and it was his purpose to take that and arrive in Tilton early yes-terday morning in ample time for the wed-ding in which he was to be one of the principals. So armed with a special permit ride on the freight train be went to sleep the happiest man in Georgia. Engineer Hyer has been leaving people long enough to know that time and tile and trains wait for no man, and he does know it and he knew full well that he must be up in time for that freight train that was to carry him to his waiting oride-elect. But alas! who can tell what a sleeping man will do? His dreams were so sweet that old Morpheus did not have the heart to release him, and thereby played him a mean trick. While Hyer was dreaming of his sweetheart and the happy days to come, of his home and the obliging freight train that would take him to the wedding, the fireman on that same train was getting up steam and his brother engineer was fwaiting for the time to pull the throttle open and go flying away with his load of freight and the bridegroom.

The load of freight went all right, but the bridegroom did not. When the big engine dashed out in darkness from the glare of the electric lights the groom-to-be was fast asleep. Two o'clock came and still he slumbered. Another hour passed, and while the train sped on Hyer still s'ept. When old Sol came up he looked at the train and saw no Hyer, and then he shot one of his rays in on the sleeping groomo-be and awoke him with a start.
"By the smoke stack of my engine."

swore Hyer, as he sprang out of bed, "what is this?" He was wild. The next train would not put him in Tilton until two hours after the time for the wedding, but he was left and in the sacred words of the prayer book, "and there was no help for it." To be left was bad enough, but other things made it worse. The waiting bride did not live near enough to the telegraph station to get her word about his misfortune, and what would she think? It was a terrible predicament and one calculated to turn a man gray, but Hyer took it philosophically after the first excitement had worn off, and when the morning train backed into the carshell Engineer Hyer was the first man to board it just one hour befere it left. He did not leave the seat until the whistle blew for Tilten, and he was off the train before stopped good. The wedding came off all right. Not exactly on schedule time, but just as happily in spite of all the trouble. Mr. and Mrs. Hyer have gone to the exposition at Nashville, and probably forgotten all about their ante-nupdal troubles, but Mr. Hyer's friends are teling the joke on him just the same.

A Burglary Mystery Solved. Yesterday morning the dead negro was discovered and the mystery surrounding the burglary of the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company's store Saturday night was solved. Scaborn Reford, the colored sexton of St. Philip's cathedral, walked behind the parsonage stable and he saw a negro half sitting and half lying in a ravine in the rear of the building. He at first thought he was asleep, but a closer inspection showed that he was dead. The police were notified and it was at once known that the dead man was the burglar who was found in the dry goods store Saturday night and who was tracked nearly a mile by the trail of blood. There were certain facts connected with the burglary which led the officers to think that the investigation would de-velop into a sensation. If the officers were right in their theory there is now no chance of the proof coming forth, for the only person who could have given the in-formation necessary is dead.

When found the dead negro was reclining, with his back resting against an em-bankment. He was bare-headed and barebankment. He was bare-headed and bare-footed. It was evident that he had been dead for two or three days and he presented a most horrible spectacle as he sat there with his eyes staring and his clothes A large crowd of people flocked to the place. Meet in Convention.

Raising of Sponges in American Waters Will Also Be a Topic That

Washington, October 6.-The fish commission is very much interested in the national fishery congress which convenes at Tampa, Fla., in January, 1898. The congress will, it is believed, prove to be one of the most noteworthy gatherings of the kind ever held in the country. A large attendance of representatives of the various state fish commissions, angling and fishing associations and the national fish commission is expected; and all persons interested in fishing, angling and fish culture will be welcomed.

The United States government has extended invitations to the governments of Great Britain, Germany, Russia, France, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Sweden and Norway, Denmark, Belgium, Austra-Hun-gary, Greece, the Netherlands, Japan, China, Mexico, Brazil, Venezuela and other countries. It is proposed to organ-

The call for the congress was issued by Governor Bloxham, of Florida. One of the main objects is to secure harmony among the states in providing for the preservation, propagation and protection of their water products. Fish culture, oyster culture, turtle culture and frog culture are down on the programme for discussion. The applica-tion of modern methods to the cultiva-tion of oysters is a subject in which all the coastal states will be interested. Turtle culture is an innovation, but is fast becoming a necessity in the absence of protection to the young eggs of the green turtle. The utilization of waste marsh land and pond for the rearing of bull frogs for market is a subject of great interest to many thousands The opportunity for those of small means to engage in this business is excellent.

One of the timely topics that will be prominently presented to the congress is the sponge industry. While Florida is the only state actively participating in the sponge fishery, every state is indirectly interested. Already some of the best sponge grounds have been depleted, and the necessity for artificial measures to maintain the supply is being generally appreciated.

Sponge culture is one of the most promising fields now opening in comjection with the fisheries. With unlimited water bottom of suitable character for planting and with a home demand far in excess of the present output of the Florida reefs, the growing of sponges ought to engage the attention of many people in the next few years, and it is expected that this congress will give an incentive to the enterprise. The United States fish commission is said to be considering the transplanting of some of the finer grades of Mediterranean sponges to Florida ters. The best Turkish sponges bring $40 to $50 a pound, while the choicest of the Florida sheep wool sponge are worth only $2 or $3 a pound. The conditions, extent, methods an needs of the great commercial fisheries will receive considerable attention, as will the question of fishery legislation. Exhibits of fishing apparatus, fishery products and appliances for preserving or preparing fish are solicited from dealers, manufact-urers and others. Some device for drying fish like fruit is said to be much needed on parts of the southern coast, and inventors would do well to take advantage of this opportunity to exhibit methods session of the congress will voted to the angling interests. Florida in winter is an angler's paradise, and an opportunity will be afforded for an interhange of experiences by anglers from all parts of the country.

of a Stolen Baby Carriage. Patrolman Dobbins carried Albert Ruffin and Claude Allen, two young white boys, before the recorder yesterday afternoon for trying to seel a baby carriage which was sed to have been stolen Two witnesses testified that the boys had tried to sell the carriage for 50 cents, when it was worth $5 or $6 at least.

One of the witnesses was George Oaks, hinself a somewhat noted character in police circles. The recorder sent the boys to the city chaingang for thirty days and as soon as he had pronounced the sentence the Allen boy turned to Oaks, and hurling at him a vile epithet right in the presence of the recorder, he said:

STUTTERING CURED.

Prof. G. W. Randolph, the great voice trainer of the world, is now at 72 Spring street, Atlanta, Ga, curing many stutterers. Several hundred stutterers from Georgia, Alabema, Virginia and the Carolinas have been corresponding with the Professor at his Voice School, Memphis, Tenn. Many from these states named have gone to him in Memphis and have been curel, but the expense of travel is so great that others have insisted on him meeting them in Atlanta. He brings letters from Governor J. M. Stone, of Mississippi, and many from great preachers and doctors and stutterers, whom he has cured. The stutterer should call to see him or write at once. His charges are quite reasonable.

Treasurer Payne Exonerated.

Treasurer Payne was allowed to be completely exonerated from any liability in the past, and his books, which have been pronounced correct, will relieve his former bondsmen of any liability. This action was the result of a request from Treasurer Payne, who has since given a new bond and in justice to his bondsmen, as some trouble had been experienced by them in fact that they were on the bond of Judge

Two letters were read before the session after which the bondsmen were relieved. The letters were as follows:
"Dear Sirs:—In reference to the exoneration asked of you by your treasurer.
Mr. C. M. Payne, I beg to state to you as

"Upon a fair and full statement of all his accounts and liabilities and a settlement of the same up to and including his last term of office, he should be exonerated. It goes without saying that it should be the duty of your board to examine all his accounts and to see if the settlement he now offers to make is a proper settlement. You cannot blindly give him exoneration until you have a full settlement of all his accounts, covering all of his dealings, as treasurer up to the beginning of the present term. After you make this settlement and give him this exoneration and the same is give bim this exoneration and the same is entered on your minutes, it will be final except for fraud. Respectfully, Hapeville Asks for a Road.

A number of citizens of Hapeville were bresent before the board yesterday to urge he commissioners to build a road from Hapeville that will connect with the lege Park chert road. The road from Hapeville was asked to go to East Point where it would touch the College Park chert.
"Hapeville is an old town," said Colonel Reuben Arnold, "and has been paying tax. es for many years. Now, College Park is a new town, yet that town has an elegant paved driveway from the county line to the city limits. All that we ask is that the commissioners pave the road from Hapeville to East Point, a distance of about three miles. This will then connect with the chert road and we will be satisfied."

"We might be able to grant your re-uest," said Chairman Adair, "were it not for the high and extortionate trackage rates charged by the Central railroad. That road charges about as much to carry the cars of chert from the city to East Point as the Southern charges to haul it from Alabama to Atlanta."

The delegation withdrew after arguing the necessity for the road, promising to take the question of trackage up with the Central and see if a low rate could not be

"I am merely to sing for charity at a small concert to be given here September 20th, and the audience will consist chiefly of my own personal friends. The announcement of this simple affair in London last week has already brought results which are very distasteful to me. Only Saturday I received from London two very handsome offers of professional engagements, and I am asked to sing but two songs in an evening. I would not sing professionally if they were to give me a million pounds for a song, for," she added, with a very sweet smile, "you know money is not everything. Will Not Return to the Stage. Though Mary Anderson Navarro has repeatedly announced that she will never return to the stage regularly, the report is circulated that she will. Her figure has lost none of the graceful lines or suppleness which characterized it in the days when the public worshiped at her shrine, and although she has twice been a mother, she is as fresh and sweet and chaste looking as ever. Her first child, a handsome boy, died two years ago, when Mmc. Navarro was living in London at Lexham Gardens. "The Navarro home is perfect in its se-glusion, being located on the outskirts of the sleepy little Worcestershire town, a place where the people speak in soft, low tones and give one the impression that the friction and high pressure of modern life are conditions not only never felt by them, but something of which they have never even dreamed. The house, a low, rambling old structure, 'old English' in design, is almost at the foot of North Cots-wold mountain, and both its exterior and interior are poetic in the extreme. It is all sweetly simple and home-like, without a farring note anywhere and not the slight-est signs of ostentation or conspicuous evi-dence of the Navarro wealth. The place was chosen partly for its isolated and in-accessible position, for as Mme. Navarro said, she wished to get as fur away from the public eye as possible."

As an organist and composer, Mr. Brown has an international reputation, having been born and elected in England. His home, until a few months ago, had been for several years in Toronto, Canada, where he held a conspicuous position among the many brilliant musicians canada, where he held a conspicuous position among the many brilliant musicians of that city. A little more than a year ago he established a conservatory of music at Columbus, Ga., which is already attracting pupils from all the southern states. Mr. Brown spent his summer vacation in and around Atlanta, and while here gave several impromptu recitals on the organ at the First Methodist church to a limited number of his friends and pronounced the organ, as have all others who have preceded him, a magnificent instrument.

Mrs. McLure, who will assist Mr. Brown, has a voice of rare cultivation, range and sweetness and will delight her audience. These good people have tendered this recitel to the Sunday school of the church for the purpose of enabling them to raise a fund with which to discharge a debt which is of long standing and many subscription cards have been sold but not sufficient to fully meet the obligation, and if those who attend and have not centributed desire to do so, it will be gratefully received; but there is no charge for admission and all who come will be heartly welcomed.

PROSPECTUS.

This company has been formed to purchase and work a well-known gold property in Cherokee county, Georgia, consisting of 166 2-3 acres, of which 66 2-3 acres are freehold, namely lot 210 and 26 2-3 acres are freehold, namely lot 210 and 26 2-3 acres in lot 211, and 100 acres the minerals and mineral right, namely lots 269, 223 and 26 acres in lot 282, all in the fifteenth district and second section of Cherokee county. It is situated within four miles of Holly Springs railway station, a little north of west from it; about six miles southwest from Canton, the county town, where there is also a railway station. The main road running southwest from Canton pass a throng the property.

Prior to the outbreak of the late war this district is reputed to have been one of the most celebrated of any in the southern states for the amount and quality of the gold found there. The gold was obtained from placer deposits, and one place, known as the "Dry Hollow," is stated to have furnished half a militon dollars; without regular mining, "simply by washing the earth and gravel in pans."

The "Dry Hollow" and the other localities where the great bulk of the gold of this district was found is a little down the stream from this property; many attempts have been made to find on that land the mother lode or vein from which the golden grain was washed, and a shaft has been sunk for eighty feet, chiefly, through granite, in one attempt to find such a vein; but thus far no such vein has been found there; while on this property, a few rols only further up the stream, there exists an externely rich vein of decomposed ere; this decomposed ore, or saprolite, readily washes down, and the presumption is almost absolutely conclusive that this is the mother lode or vein from which all of that vealth in the past emanated.

Be that as it may—whether it has or has not ever produced any gold in the past, there can be of the mines will be a credit to them, and the amount of dividends they will be able to pay to the shareholders becoming known, will be of general benefit to other gold properties in the state.

The vein on which most of the exploring work has heretofore been done appears to be over five feet in width of ore, of which the richest part is fifty inches wide. One of the directors had two assays made in February, 1896, of the decomposed ore from twenty-five feet depth; one assay gave $24.18 per ton and the other $32.04.

On the 20th of August, 1897, a special meeting at the mine was called for inspection and examination of the property by and on behalf of the directors. As only brief notice had been given of the proposed visit, there had been no time to pump the water from the shaft. Three pannings of the decomposed ore were made in the tresence of the party, and every panning showed a large amount of free gold in the pan. Samples were taken and sent for assay to Messrs. George P. Gool & Co., and the N. P. Pratt Laboratory, of Atlanta, with the following results:

It is fair to suppose that when the solid ore is reached it will yield more gold than the decomposed ore, from which more or less of free gold" escales by being leached out. In 1857 a shaft was afork on this vein, the work being done under the direction of Mr. J. L. Hughes, now living at Kennesaw, who states that they went down something over eighty feet, and at that depth the ere was much of it solid, and the vein eight feet in width, and that a ton of the ore rhipped north returned $523 to the ton.

The general report from those who have worked most on and about this vein is that the ore will probably exceed an average of $50 per ton, with many streaks occurring very much richer than that.

WAITING ATTITUDE

Brils Not Inclined to Trade During Most of Yesterday's Market.

BEARS RAIDED SUCCESSFULLY

They Shook Out Further Stop-Lo Orders and Closed Stocks a Sharp Fraction Lower.

New York, October 6.—The bulls main tained a waiting attitude for the mos part in today's market and the bears wer decessful in shaking out further stop los ders and depressing the general leve of the market a further sharp fraction. There seems to be long stock to sell and the bears are thus encouraged to continue their efforts. Where there is evidence of realizing they apply pressure by short seling and so precipitate the decline to point where stop loss orders are added to the weight of the market. The conse-quence of this policy was some very sharp eclines in special stocks during the day Sugar, Chicago Gas, Manhattan, Bay Stat Gas and the grangers being the objects o most aggressive attacks. The lowest prices of the day were made carry in the fina hour, but the last half-hour of the trading saw a steady hardening of prices, which materially reduced the net losses. All the factors in the general situation indicated a continued increase in actual values, and there was no assignable cause for the de-cine except the exaggerated level of prices which has been attained. One of the features of the day was the large buying in Pennsylvania and a sharp rise in the price of the stock. The announcement of the withdrawal from the Bank of England of $50,000 in American eagles for shipment to New York had only a momentary effect in steadying prices. This was the more nota-, as the movement is considered to be beginning of a steady import of gold Sterling exchange sold at $4.8% today, that price being onered at seller's option for the rest of the month. The ample supply of gold at present in the country must be accepted as accounting for the small effect produced by the impending gold movement. The New York clearing neuse banks now hold the 285 Me in species compared with hold $92,365,160 in specie, compared with $55,801,100 a year ago. The last of the gold engaged in Europe for import two weeks ago has arrived from Genoa and been deposited to the account of the importers. Although the New York banks have lost in the two weeks $16,615,145 of their deposits, the specie in the cash reserve has shown an actual increase in the same time. The United States treasury gold reserve has also been increasing at the rate of a quarter of a million dollars a day for several days past. The rates for money in New York market show no further tendency to harden. If all these cir-cumstances are taken into account, it will not seem surprising that small importance attaches to the movement of gold hitherto. London was a buyer of stocks in this market today, and statements of railroad earnings all continued to show increases. Nevertheless, the result of the day's irregular trading is the showing of net losses extending from a fraction to over a point throughout the list. The dealings in bonds were somewhat larger than those of yesterday and prices declined in sympathy with stocks. Total sales $1.665,000. Old United States 4s registered and coupon were advanced 1/8 b.d today. There were sales of the old 4s at 112@1123/2 and of the 5s coupon at 115.

105 Co deferred Paine, Murphy & Co.'s Stock Letter. Atlanta, October 6.—The stock market was weak and feverish on sales for both accounts today. London bought moderately, but local sentiment was bearish. The traders worked the speculation on the theory of disturbance in financial circles on account of the New York political campaign. Continued good railway earnings and fresh importations of gold were ignored as influences.

The occasional railies were feeble and short lived, and the absence of important support was conspleuous. Expectal pressure was put upon Chicago Gas, which, on talk of organized opposition by the independent companies in Chicago, fell over 3 per cent. Bay State Gas was weak on the placing in the unlisted department of the company's fresh issues.

In the railway list the depression in Rock Island reached about 2 per cent. Declines of 1 per cent over were frequent elsewhere. ngs and fresh importations of gold were elsewhere. The market clsed irregular and weak.

The Post's Financial Cable.

New York, October 6.—The Evening Post's London financial cablegram says: The stock markets were steady and quiet today. West Australia mines are still booming, but with signs of weakness.

Americans opened dull over the parity, There was scarcely any selling here, and the absence from the markets of the Jews restricted arbitrage dealings. Prices were steady at the close.

The withdrawal of £100,000 in gold from the Bank of England for America had little effect on the market for shares. It is asserted, that New York doos not want gold specially, but desire to resell to London the shares recently shipped from here. The firmness in the London discount matket is due to the gold shipments to New York.

The Paris bourse was dull and the Berlin market steady.

New York October 6.—By Associated Press: The cotton market developed market dimprovement in nearly all directions to-day. The opening tone was firm, with trices showing an advance of 1941 points on better cables and increased outside speculative interest. There was a further advance on free covering of shorts, southern and Wall street buying. About the middle of the afternoon there was some liquidation that carried prices off a couple of points from the highest point on the more active positions, but as a rule the market closed with the advantage strongly in favor of the longs, with prices firm at a net advance of 507 points.

The following were the closing quotations for est-

Hubbard Bres. & Co.'s Cotton Letter. New York, October 6.—A better demand from Manchester spinners, who find their supplies reduced to a minimum, was to be noted this morning and Liverpool showed an advance this morning based on this better demand. Our cables state, that there is a feeling abroad that cotton is in a healthy condition, though Liverpool crears are strangely all to sell. There has been an investment demand, but not so large as yesterday. No one cares to be short of cotton at present prices before the burgan. This leaves the officiency cotton at present price. This leaves the offe ed to the daily movement, as it comes market. Spinners show no disposition change their crop estimates, but are dined to buy their immediate wants, he market has not shown the superprish as vectorials. rength as yesterday, though no one local account in the last five annutes changed a weak underto is into a firm closing. The traders expect better foreign markets tomorrow. Liverpool was again a seller on the close.

Paine, Murphy & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Atlanta, October 6.—The cotton markt continues to maintain the firm undertone which recently developed, and prices have today made still further progress toward a higher level. Opening prices, influenced by favorable Liverpool advices, were from 5 to 7 points over opening quotations on good buying, closing at the highest point for the day; tone steady. Commission houses have been liberal buyers on orders from the south, and Liverpool and New Oricans have also bought. The statements which we have previously made in the past to the effect that the crop had been overestimated, seem likely to be justified, as there is a growing belief on the part of the trade that the production is not likely to reach the figures expected earlier in the season, and there is consequently a disposition to reduce estimates. It is reported that the German exporters are talk-Paine, Murphy & Co.'s Cotton Letter. disposition to reduce estimates. It is ported that the German exporters are ported that the German exporters are talking bullishly, owing to the fact that buyers in Europe are nervous and require prompt delivery of cotton purchased in consequence of the low stocks abroad. As a result of the fact that the stock and grain markets now offer less inducement to speculators than recently, conton, owing to its cheapness, ought to become a speculative favorite once the public becomes convinced that prices have been unduly depressed owing to the collect which has heretofore prevailed that the crop was likely to be considerably larger than current indications seem to justify. New Orleans expects tomorrow 6,00 to 7,000 bales, against 12,204 last year; Houston 10,600, against 8,769 last year.

Southern Exchange Cotton Letter. Atlanta, October 6.—This has been a dull day in cotton and we record an advance of 8 points on futures and 1-16c on spots, of 8 points on futures and 1-16c on spots, and note that the Atlantic markets are also up 1-16c and most of them quoted as firm. The semi-weekly statement shows recelpts 115.464, against 118.129, 2nd shipments 196.485, against 274.918 last year. We believe the sentiment both here and at New York has changed, and if receipts do not become extraordinarily neavy the rear New York has changed, and if receipts do not become extraordinarily neavy the markets will continue to advance, and are a purchase on reactions, which are bound to occur from time to time. Port receipts today 50,500, against 50,000 and 44,633. Sstimates for tomorrow: New Orleans 6,600 to 7,000, against ...250, 10,750 and 11,800; Houston 10,200 to 10,500, against 8,700, 12,500 and 13,500. Commission houses have done more today than for some time past, indicating an improvement in general speculation. The fever record up to 1 o'clock today is nineteen new cases and five deaths, indicating that the official record for ine day will be worse than any previous day, but a great many cases are of a very mild character.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York. October 6.—(Special.)— Cotton was nigher today. There were moments of weakness, but the close was buoyant. Liverpool started off by cabling prices unchanged from yesterday, and later advanced 14:62 points. Our market opened 264 points higher. Liverpool was again a free seller here, and the market hesitated after the opening. The south however, tought heavily and prices becoming firm, advanced sharply. At the first signs of slackening in the demand there was free liquidation. The bears hammered also, and the whole advance was lost. Twenty minutes before the close the market was dull and easy, and gave indications of closing lower. A demand sprang up, however, the shorts became frightened, there was some aggressive builing and prices ran up again rapidly, almost reaching the best figures of the day. January opened at 6.47, advanced to 6.49, declined to 6.46, rapidly shot up to 6.55, gradually declined to 6.48 and then, in the last few noinness, jumped to 6.54 and closed at 6.53(36.54, with the tone of the market firm. After the close the feeling was bullish and 6.55 was bid for January. Receipts were fairly full today, but the southern markets were firm. Those who buy cotton on breaks and can hold it will, we think, find it profitable.

The Dry Goods Market.

The Dry Goods Market.

New York, October 6.—The dry goods situation is little changed. Today's market was quiet on account of the Jewish holiday, and also because of the unsatisfactory weather conditions. Peppers from various sections show a fair tetail trade prevailing, and in jobbing dreles the demand is well sustained. Cotton goods are still quiet in most grades, but woolens are in generally well sustained demand at more satisfactory prices. Silks rud maxed goods are strong and active. The market for staple cottons showed no change of moment. Print cloths were quite active at the lower prices now prevailing. Extras sold on a basis of 2½c spot and early deliveries and manufacturers seemed willing to let them go at that price. I tints and ginghams were unchanged.

Atwood Violett, Lockwood & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, October 6.—Another very steady market, with more outsidt interest coming into it; also more life at Liverpool, with larger spot sales, about summarizes the causes for the improvement today. Too much confidence in lower prices even than those realized last week brought about an accumulation of speculative short interest that is now being taken out at a loss. Soot holders in the south are getting more courage. They are selling fewer contracts here as a hedge and their offerings to Europe are not what they were daily for several weeks until the past few days. Should the spot demand and buying for speculation of contracts come simultaneously, an impetus would be given the market of no small proportion.

CLOSING WAS STRONG

Wheat Added 1 1-4c to Tuesday's Two Cents' Advance.

FOREIGN NEWS THE FACTOR

Corn Advanced Only a Small Fraction and Cats Closed Higher, but Provisions Were Lower.

11/4 to the 2c advance it scored yesterday, the market closing strong at close to top figures. Foreign markets again hold the reins, but the advance was checked by the unloading of large quantities of long wheat, presumably for the bull clique. Corn acted similarly to wheat, but advanced only 1/6/4c. Oats closed 1/4c higher. Provisions were again weak and showed declines of 7½@12½c at the close. Wheat was strong at the opening. Liverpool opened 1d higher and Paris was up an equal amount. In addition to the invigorating influence of the foreign advices the trade was advised of sales of 150,000 barrels of flour yesterday at Minn apolis, a good share of which, it was claimed, was soid for expert. The Ohio state crop report showed a yield of only 27,375,000 bushels compared with $2,000,000 bushels last year and said the prospects for winter wheat were very poor on acweather map gave no indication of an improvement in the prevailing conditions for the next thirty-six hours. First sales of December were at from $21/4@921/4c, compared with yesterday's closing price of 91%c. The opening prices were so tempt ing as compared with the closing of the previous day that a line of over 1,000,000 bushels of wheat, presumed to have been held by a local speculator, was thrown on sale. The market took it almost without effort, the only effect being 1/2 decline. Then the market bounded to 92%c. But a perfect flood of wheat came on the market at that price, the result being that December was pounded down to 91%c. Northwestern receipts were liberal at 1,603 cars for Minneapolis and Duluth, against $25 last week and 1,152 last year. Local receipts were 315 cars against 285 expected. Below a certain price the demand for wheat seemed practically unlimited and indicated the presence in the market of some powerful interest. At 91% he offerings were absorbed so far tha the shorts became alarmed and started for cover. This sent the price up to within 4c of the top figures, when offerings again became in excess of the demand, and another reaction followed. The Bradstreet's report of the world's available supply of wheat showed an increase of 2,914,000 bushels against 5,970,000 bushels the previous week and 3,720,000 bushels for the orresponding week last year. Of the increase during last week 2,314,000 bushels was in the United Stales and Canada east of the Rockies and 600,000 in and affoat for Europe Theorem. afloat for Europe. These figures were much less than anticipated and helped by reported export engagements of seventy boat loads, made the market very strong toward the close. December was bringing 19% of the cognition and december was bringing $2%c as the session ended.

There was a firm feeling in corn with the trade influenced by the drought and the government crop report, which is due Saturday and which is expected to show material decline in condition. Cables were also higher. There was very good were also higher. There was very good buying by strong local commission firms during the morning, but offerings increased at such a rate on all the advances that the market made but little vances that the market made but little neadway. The wistle increased 1,576,600 bushels. Receipts were 400 cars. Atlantic clearances amounted to 512,600 bushels. December ranged from 304,6204 to 234. closing 36,000 night advance.

December ranged from 20%000% to 2% closing %6%c nigher at 30%c.

Oa2s were firm at a slight advance, mainly the result of the influence of wheat and corn. New York did some buying, and the foreign demand continued urgent, both of which facts helped prices. Trading as a whole was unimportant. The visible increased 65,000 bushels. Receipts were 271 cars. Clearances 142,000 bushels. December ranged from 20@20% to 19%c closing ¼c higher at 20c asked.

Provisions were decidedly weak. An advance of 2d in the English lard markets and much smaller local receipts of hogs than expected helped the market around the opening, but the slight rally brought out liberal quantities for sale and the market soon became heavy. The demand died out almost entirely after the session advanced. Closing prices were at the bottom with December pork 7½c lower at $3.024,08.65. December lard 12½c lower at $4.62½.

Estimated receipts Thursday—Wheat, 329; corn, 445; oats, 390 cars; hogs, 30,000 head.

Paine, Murphy & Co.'s Grain Letter. Atlanta, October 6—The firm feeling which existed at the close yesterday, higher cables this morning and no rain of importance where it is needed, caused a higher opening in wheat today, opening trades being about be per bushel higher than yesterday's close. This brought out very large selling by hold. where it is needed, caused a higher opening in wheat today, opening trades being about le per bushel higher than yesterday's close. This brought out very large selling by holders who had bought a few days previously, one house especially being very aggressive on the selling side, disposing of a line of about 1,500,000 bushels, credited to St. Louis parties. Offerings from other sources were also quite free, and after the early demand had been satisfied, the market gradually weakened, selling down about 1%c per bushel from the highest point. On the break good buying developed, some of the early sellers buying back their wheat. Later in the session there seemed to be a general demand with offerings light and almost the entire break was recovered, final figures being about 1%c above yesterday's close, with the tone of the market steady. Liverpool opened at an advance of 1d for December, but closed with %d of this lost. Paris was quoted 25,000 centimes higher: Antwerp, 12 centimes lower. There was a further good export brainess reported at the seaboard, although mostly for shipment next month. Freight room is said to be very scarce. Clearances were fairly large at 406,000 bushels. Bradstreet's reports an increase of about 3,860,000 bushels in the world's available supply. There has been a firm feeling in corn. although the market moved within a narrow range. The trading was about evenly divided and largely between scaloers. Clearances amounted to 32,000 bushels. Provisions have been weak and lower on general flquidation; also on free selling by Enrillsh holders and packers. The light run of hogs and higher opening in grain held the market for product steady for a while, but the selling soon caused a depressed feeling, and there was a break in the whole list.

Chicago, October 6.-Wheat today added If it hadn't been for the new high tariff law these bargains would not exist today. An over-zealous, oversanguine importer over-reached himself and before he could countermand orders was overwhelmed with a monumental, colossal quantity of Handkerchiefs. His object was to provide prodigally before prices advanced. But so many smart people did the same thing, he found it difficult to distribute his goods. The only way he could extricate himself was to give up his dream of profits and lose part of original costs. Our resident New York buyer stepped in at this crisis and scooped in an imposing lot of Handkerchiefs at fractional prices. Great values for today:

siduously To Secure It.

Folks of Fitzgerald Suspect Fraud and Ask Advice of Attorney General.

And now Irwin county comes to the front with a warm fight for the location at Irwinville. That meteoric municipality of Fitzgerald, however, has put in a bid for the county seat, and the struggle has begun in earnest, with about the same perature as that between Decatur and Stope Mountain.

The people of Irwinville, naturally jealous of Fitzgerald, see no reason why the county seat should be moved. In fact, they rise in their dignity and say it shall not be moved. The courthouse has been located there for a number of years, they say, and Fitzgerald has no right to thus ruthlessly snatch away such time-honored to an election, giving the people of the whole county a voice in the location of the county seat. This war of ballots will come off in the near future. Electioneering is already warm, and there is no telling which will win, although from reports Fitzgerald seems to be in the forms their main business. Phinizy is a

each other of committing gross frauds. The clerk of the city of Fitzgerald has written Attorney General Terrell in Atlanta wanting to know how many voting precincts could be opened on election pulling and contesting, thereby causing serious delays in the voting of the citi-zens of Fitzgerald, and probably preventing the entire vote being polled. The attorney general does not anticipate any trouble along this line, however, as there are only about 1,000 voters in Fitzgerald and under ordinary circumstances they should cast their ballots easily_in one day. Both towns are determined to win and the outcome will be watched with

THE SCENE ON THE MARCH NOW LOCATED AT IRWINVILLE CASE OF DENNIS, THE HANGMAN MR. G. W. COLLIER ENTERS KICK

Now He Is Accused.

Several Officers Say the Juror Didn't Leave Jury Room While Indictment Was Being Made.

Unique and remarkable cases are the natural product of the United States court, but yesterday Uncle Sam's legal department furnished a story that is more novel than usual. Uncle Sam has a court in Atlanta, the principal business of which is to keep down vioations of the federal statutes and to weed out the great moonshine industry of the state. An indispensable adjunct of this court is a United States grand jury. This jury is supposed to be made up of the best true bill of indictment against one of the grand jurors, a member of the body that found the bill. The charge against the grand juror was making moonshine whisky.

Louis Phinizy, of Campbell county, was the grand juror who was indicted for the very crime that the jury is established to nvestigate. Of course there are a few other charges besides moonshining that the jury investigates, but this line of work negro. He has been assisting in bringing indictments against other men since the October term of court opened, but now he is stopped by an indictment against him-

Several officers of the court testified that Phinizy helped to investigate the case against him. Whether this is true is not known. The indictment against the juror was drawn and the warrant sworn out for his arrest. Phinizy will be tried at the present term of court. He lives near Fairburn, in Camp-bell county, and was selected as a grand juror when the jury was drawn several weeks ago. If Phinizy is found guilty he will be fined and sent to jail just like any other moonshiner, but if he is released he will be allowed to resume the work of indicting other moonshiners.

Phinizy lives in a section that was at one time noted for its many moonshine Alderman Rice's Special Committee Meets This Morning.

TO CONFER WITH NON-RESIDENTS

Two Delegations Will Appear Before the Committee To Be Heard on the Limit Extension Question.

Alderman Frank P. Rice, of the north side, and his special committee associates of the council will renew the work of promoting the movement to extend the limits of the city on the north side this morning. The special committee and two committees of citizens interested will meet in the mayor's reception room at 10 o'cleck and take up the question assigned to them.

Mr. Rice is very hopeful that the purpose of the conference will be accomplished. He thinks the time is opportune for extending the limits on the north side, and he has some strong arguments to present to the citizens of the suburbs why they It is probable that the committee will should come in and be a part of the city. Mr. Rice says the limits will be extended before January, and that the resple of the eighth ward will have a representative in council by that time if he can ac-complish his purpose. He is entausiastic in the movement and will bring every point to the attention of the suburbanites which will argue for the 'xteasion of the limits. The district beyond the city lim'ts out Peachtree street is thickly populated and the residents are enjoying many tenefits of the city proper. They have gos and water and electric light service a d Mr. Rice says there is no reason why they should not join the city and help to build it up. He says it is only a question of time when the limits must be extended and the sooner the batter, he says er the better, he says. The delegations will appear before the special committee. One will be headed by

Mr. Langston, in opposition to the move-ment, and the other by Judge Tempkins, who favors the extension of the limits. THE RACE FOR LIBRARIAN.

Governor Will Make Appointment Soon After Legislature Meets.

The race for state librarian is growing warmer as the day of appointment draws near. The several candidates are getting in good work, and each seems to be certain of victory. The governor will make the appointment soon after the legislature meets and will not now give any intimation as to the successful candidate. Those who are watching the race closely. however, predict the re-election of Captain John Milledge, the present incumbent. He has strong indorsement from prominent citizens and the laboring classes from all over the state. Mrs. Longstreet, who holds the position of assistant librarian, has never returned from her honeymoon, and so far as is known, she is still a candidate for the position.

There are also some who believe Hon.

James E. Brown, of Newnan, will get the plum. He has long been an ardent supporter of Governor Atkinson in his various political battles, and he stands a good chance for being appointed. The outstrongest factor.

Dr. Carnes had Warren Kitchens, a negro youth, arrested yesterday morning for driv-ing a mule which was too poor to be worked. The charge was cruelty to animals.

The doctor testified that the mule had been pulling a wagon which held an advertising sign, and that the animal was so weak for the want of food that it fell down near the union station. The mule was hitched in the police barracks under the windows to the recorder's court, and Judge Andy left his seat to gaze upon the bony animal. I don't think that mule is so awfully poor," was the recorder's comment, "and I have seen much poorer ones." Kitchens stated that he bought the mule for $6, 50 cents of which he paid in cash, s.i.d the balance was to be on long time. It was about the cheapest mule that had ever been bought in Atlanta.

The negro promised to feed the mule and fatten him up, and the recorder dismissed the case.

Nearly all of the big trunk sewers end at points i ear the city proper and for several miles the foul water and drainage of the city runs through streams which were formerly clear, pure water.

The country property owners claim that the city has damaged their property by allowing the refuse of the city to be dumped into the branches and creeks, spoiling the streams for all purposes. The question is becoming a serious one and it is freely predicted that in the near future the city will have to consider the question of extending its trunk sewers to the livers of nearly so. City officials have already be gun to discuss the question, and when it comes prominently before the city and county authorities it will be a question of great interest to all the people of the

Mr. Collier Makes a Complaint.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. G. W. The drainage from this sewer dumped into what is called Clear creek cycud the exposition grounds, and it has fouled the water in that stream to the mouth through Mr. Collier's land and that of other property owners.

Mr. Collier stated that the sewerage rad ruined his water supply, and that he now has no water for stock or other purposes except from wells. He asked the water board to extend a supply pipe to his prop erty from Peachtree street, and the board discussed the question at length, finally referring the matter to the president of the Annual Statements Handed in Yesterday | Forfeit Will Be Claimed if the Contract to Commissioners.

Many Miles of Public Roads Worked During Past Twelve Months.

REPORTS ARE VERY LONG AND TEDIOUS

County Almshouse, Convict Camp, Jail and Other Departments Are Well Kept.

The annual reports of county officers un-der the jurisdiction of the board of counlssioners were received yester-The reports, without a single exception, show the county in an excellent condition and every department has received close astention and good management for the past twelve months.

Dr. J. L. McDaniel, the county physician, handed in an exceedingly interesting re-port, showing the deaths, diseases and sanitary condition in the jail and in the county chaingang for the fiscal year. There have been eighteen deaths in both places. The sickness in the camps has been atributed to many causes and many convicts pave been ill. His report shows that it has cost the county 31 cents per capita to

Clerk Kontz's Report.

The report of Clerk Anton L. Kontz for the fiscal year just closed showed the county to be in good financial condition. From liquor licenses alone had been received the sum of $1,050. From rent of property owned by the county a sum of $520 had been received.

It will be remembered that one of the chief charges brought against ex-Clerk John Tyler Cooper was the absence of any theater license returns. Yesterday Clerk Kontz showed $278.50 had been received from the four city theaters. An tem of $100 included the licenses received from traveling shows which have visited he city in the past twelve months. The annual report of Dr. R. L. Hope, superintendent of the county almshouse, shows a saving of $1.470 this year over the expenses of last year.

At present there are eighty-eight inmates in the almshouse. There were two births at the home this year.

Large crops have been raised on the farm and everything needed has practically been raised this year without any great ost to the county. A large amount has een raised on the farm and the farm is in excellent condition.

The Work on the Roads.

Probably the most interesting report to he public is that of Superintendent T. J. Donladson, who has charge of the county chaingang and who attends to the making of the roads of the county. His report shows there are three hundred and fifty prisonrs now in the camps, and the report gives in detail the amount received and discharged in the pay rolls newspapers of what it has for the management of the convicts. From the county of Fulton alone 247 con-victs were received within the past twelve months. Two hundred and twenty-six were received from other counties. Thirteen paid ed; nine escaped, and seventeen died. The cost for feeding 342 convicts and seventy-eight employees, making a total

License Books Will Close Tomorroy and Tax Books Next Day.

Tommorrow is the last day for the pay ment of business license for the last quar-ter of the year and the indications are that it will be a very busy day with Clerk Green and his force of deputies, Messrs. Campbell, Foster and Collier, and Assistant Li-cense Inspector Saxe. The business men have been slow in taking out licenses this term and there will be a big rush the last two days-today and tomorrow.

The tax payers are also very slow in set-

DELAY ON JAIL STIRS THE BOARD

Is Not Carried Out.

COUNTY IN GOOD CONDITION CHAIRMAN TO WRITE A LETTER

Board Instructs Him To Inform Contractor of Board's Action.

THE STONE WORK IS VERY FAR BEHING

That Is What Mr. Hazen Says in Answer to the Query from the Commissioners.

The county commissioners yesterday Instructed Contractor Hazen, who is building the new jail, that he would be held strictly to his contract with the county and unless the building was ready to be turned over to the board on the last day of next December he would be ompelled to pay his forfeit.

"The work is behind," said Commission er Adair. "The front part of the build-ing, which is of stone, has not reached the second story, while the rear part of the building has gone up six stories. The city building inspector was about to stop the work because the building was not going up evenly. Now, we are going to host Contractor Hazen up to his conract and he must pay his forfelt if the oulding is not ready December 31st.
"Up to the present time he has only nad vouchers for $63,000-not one-third of the work. The cell work, however, representing about $50,000, has been completed and the factory is raising cain because the cells can't be put into the build-

Before the session of the board adjourn ed Contractor Hazen entered the com-missioners' room and was informed of the discussion which had just closed. "You may, of course, write any letter you desire," said Contractor Hazen, "and we will give it close attention. I do not care to say anything about the matter, as Mr. Grant Wilkins thoroughly understands the situation and the members of the board are aware of the cause of the delay."

Will Build Jail Sewer. When the foundations of the new jail ere being dug out it was discovered that present sewer would be inadequate drain the jail. The question came up before the board for discussion and the chairman was authorized to appear before council and ask the city to build a new sewer or to arrange the present sewer to carry out the purpose of the ommissioners.

"I don't care to go before the council any mora," and Chairman Adair yesterday. "While they treated the county's request courteously, they didn't build the sewer and wanted the county to do about $50,000 worth of work for the city. It would be cheaper for the county to build the sewer than for the city to build and then get the county to pay for it n work." The sewer will cost about $70) and will be built by the county as soon as arrangements can be made. Says Jail Will Be Ready. Contractor Hazen says the new jail will be ready so far, as his contract is con-cerned. The cell work is now about completed and will be in position as soon as the roof is put on.

He says the only trouble with the work at present is the delay in the stone work, which comprises the entire front of the jail. As soon as all the stone is in position the remainder of the work will be quackly finished. tion the remarkable of the rem lovement on Foot To Materially Change Form of Prescriptions. There is a movement of national scope n foot to revolutionize the dispensing of poisons from drug stores. Dr. George F. Payne is one of the promoters, and if the plan materializes, a much safer red more uniform plan of selling poisous will have uniform plan of seiling poisons will have been adopted.

The idea is to force every druggist or physician dispensing drugs to label all packages or bottles "polson" in cases where a teaspoonful would kill an adult; or so adulterate the drug that a teaspoonful would not cause death.

Some physicians object to their prescriptions being marked polson. They do not wish the patient to know what he is taking. It is argued that if every poison was labeled according to the above conditions, the death rate from taking mistaken doses would be much smaller.

Atlantians appreciate elegant goods. This store found its inche largely through bringing here finer goods than other stores carried. The foregoing statement is not too broad. Art goods, artistic goods, the finer specimens of ceramic art are here—but they are just merchandise, when considered from a price standpoint. Direct and skilled gathering makes prices the least and that centers trade here.

Rich products of Dresden potteries wonderfully chesp. All the European specialists are represented in our stock. DOBBS, WEY
